MINE PARALYSIS EXTENDS TO RAILROADS

COAL STRIKE MEANS LAYOFF OF TRAINMEN

About 10,000 Road Employees Will Be Out of Work by End of This Week

OUTBOUND TONNAGE GONE

Lewis, President of International Miners Union Maintains Silence

Philadelphia, Pa.—(AP)—The anthracite region Wednesday began to feel the aftermath of the mine suspension which has padlocked its basic industry and demobilized an army of 148,000 bread winners since Tuesday morning.

The business paralysis which the ten anthracite companies faces in definitely began to creep down the rails of the roads carrying its coal. Outbound tonnage is practically cleaned up and on its way to market. Inevitable orders for shut-downs of shops and layoff of shopmen, car repairers and train crews on miner runs have begun to put in appearance.

Predictions that at least 10,000 railroad men would follow the miners into idleness by the end of the week because of the suspension appeared justified in reports that half the many unemployed in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad expects to close down its Scranton and Keyser Valley shops on Friday, throwing out 4,200 men. The Delaware and Hudson announced a prospective layoff of 1,200 trainmen, and has placed in white lead 50 freight locomotives used on coal runs in anticipation of protracted shutdown of the mines.

Union leaders of the three districts are engaged in smoothing out difficulties developing in connection with work of 10,000 maintenance men remaining in the mines by agreement with the operators. A noticeable movement of mine workers setting out in search of work in other fields developed Wednesday.

John L. Lewis, international president of the miners union has maintained silence since the shutdown, other than to say: "Everything is coming along as I expected."

MOTHER OF LOST FLIER SPARED NEWS OF FLIGHT

Havre De Grace, Md.—(AP)—Word of the plight of her son, John Rodgers, flight commander, on the navy seaplane Pn-9, No. 1, reported down in the sea between San Francisco and Honolulu, is being kept from his mother at the Rodgers home in Sion Hill, a half mile from here.

Admiral John A. Rodgers, retired, has kept in touch with the search for his son through the Associated Press. Commander Rodgers' mother, who is advanced in years, was worried over her son's attempted San Francisco-Honolulu venture and it has been feared that she would not withstand the shock of hearing that he had met with mishap.

TRY AGAIN TO FORCE RAILROAD COMBINES

Swampscott, Mass.—(AP)—Legislation to force railroad consolidation after a period of seven years will be sought by the administration in the next session of congress.

Amendment of the Each-Cummings act to this effect was introduced Wednesday at a conference between President Coolidge and Senator Watson, (Rep.) of Indiana, assistant leader of the senate and chairman of the senate interstate commerce commission.

Senator Watson agreed with the President that approval of the Vanovering consolidation scheme now pending before the interstate commerce commission would clear the way for numerous voluntary consolidations.

FIND 8 STILLS WORKING AT FAIR IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Five men were arrested and 500 gallons of moonshine was confiscated from a nest of stills near the state fair grounds late Tuesday. Eight large stills were in operation. Four saloonkeepers were arrested Tuesday and released on $500 bail. Hearings were set for Friday.

WHAT'S HAPPENING TO WISCONSIN?

Nash Motors Company Fears to Expand Plant to Meet Its Needs Because of Uncertain Tax Situation in State

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of articles by R. A. Kennedy, staff representative of the Post-Crescent, on the effects of the present tax policy on Wisconsin industries. The fourth of this series will appear tomorrow.)

Kenosha, Wis.—W. H. Alford, vice president of the Nash Motor company, Kenosha, is a very busy man, but he is not too busy to talk about taxes and their relation to and effect upon Wisconsin industries. In an hour and a half interview in his Kenosha office, Mr. Alford expressed his views on the present tax system and by citing concrete illustrations showed conclusively that Wisconsin industries are carrying an undue tax burden, as compared with industries in, for instance, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota.

Furthermore, in addition to the income tax, the industries of this state have an arbitrary, tax commission to deal with, and its dealings are not always ethical, he declared. Arbitrary rulings that violate almost every principle of taxation and sound economics seem to be the commission's forte, while a decision made on a certain phase of taxation is reversed the next year without any explanation to the industry paying the taxes, he added.

Interpret the tax laws whichever way they will bring in the most money, regardless of the effect on the industry in question, apparently is the policy of the tax commission, he asserted.

The Nash Motors executive prefaced his interview with the statement that his company had never threatened to leave Wisconsin and that it didn't intend to—at least for the present anyway. "We are going to stay right here and fight this unjust taxation," he declared emphatically. "We don't intend to pick up and leave as long as there is any hope of bringing about a change in the state's policy of taxation and its attitude toward productive enterprise. We will not leave Wisconsin yet awhile because we believe the people will eventually see the harm that is being done to Wisconsin industries, and demand a change. And in the meantime we are going to continue our fight against the present unjust taxes."

Mr. Alford, who is as well if not better informed than any other manufacturer in the state on taxation and its relation to industry, opposed the present tax bill and made several trips to Madison to voice his objections before the tax committee, and for personal interviews with several of the members of the legislature in an effort to point out the injustice of the bill.

"It is true that the income tax has driven a number of big industries out of the state," he continued. "Furthermore many other industries have been kept out of Wisconsin because of the existing taxes. This is serious and alarming, but to my mind the most serious aspect of the whole situation is the

BELIEVE INCOME TAX PUBLICITY HAS NO EFFECT

Revealed No Increase in Payments Due to Taxpayers' Fear of Detection

New York—(AP)—The effect of the publication of income tax payments was being generally discussed Wednesday as millions noted in the newspaper the taxes of President Coolidge. Industrial magnates, movie stars, baseball players, neighbors and so on.

As a result of questionnaire submitted to 60 collectors of international revenue in the principal centers of the country the New York Times conducted it is their general opinion that publication of payments has had no beneficial effect. It was said there has been no increase of revenue from delinquents who might fail to file returns if publication of payments were prohibited.

Despite the fact that the list furnishes insufficient information for an accurate estimate of a person's financial standing, salesmen, business rivals, many women and others with personal interests, jammed revenue officers with newspapermen. One of the principal reasons for lack of accurate information is the fact that tax-exempt securities offer escape. While the total gross income is recorded in each return, only the actual tax paid is made public.

Charles Chaplin, who paid only $345, is cited as a case in point. The tax would indicate an income of about $10,000 a year. Others with large incomes paid nothing at all. Among these are J. Ogden Armour, chairman of the board of directors of Armour & Co., Chicago; Asa G. Chandler, millionaire soft drink manufacturer, of Atlanta, and John Borden, millionaire sportsman and explorer.

FORD PLANS AERIAL MOTORCADE ACROSS COUNTRY THIS MONTH

Chicago—(AP)—An aerial motorcade, sponsored by Henry Ford and associates, is planned to be sent through the air across the country later in the month, it was disclosed Wednesday when representatives of the Ford aviation interests arrived here.

HUGHES WANTS TOLERANCE IN U. S. SCHOOLS

Speaker at Bar Association Censures Restrictions on Modern Education

Detroit, Mich.—(AP)—Liberty and law are a combination "Which our political alchemists seem to find increasing difficulty in successfully achieving," Charles Evans Hughes, said Wednesday in opening the forty-ninth meeting of the American Bar association of which he is president.

"We call ourselves the ministers of justice," he said, "but we are reminded that the justice to be administered is justice according to law—the expression of the domestic will."

The problems presented by the multiplicity of laws, the encroachments on liberty of learnings in adequate payment of judges, inordinate attitude granted lawyers, especially in sensational cases and the need of proper standards of legal education for admission to the bar, were among the many legal facts that sparked in Mr. Hughes' address.

BROAD SCOPE "Liberty today has such broad scope," he said, "that it taxes the acumen of the ablest statesman to provide laws which even measurably assure it. It is no longer the simple matter of doing what one pleases in the wide open spaces, for there are no such spaces and the danger from other liberties more than offset the delight in uncontrolled freedom."

The most ominous signs of our time is the indication of an intolerant spirit. It is more dangerous when armed, as it usually is, with sincere conviction. It can be exercised only by the only genius which watched development—the American spirit of civil and religious liberty.

Turning on this subject, Mr. Hughes continued: "If progress has taught us anything, it is the vital need of freedom in learning."

"Yet it is with respect to the freedom of learning that we find a disposition to impose restrictions which cannot fail to give up grave concern. Believing as I do that the freedom of learning is the vital breath of democracy and progress, I must that recognition of its supreme importance will direct the hand of power, and that our public schools and state universities may enjoy the priceless advantage of courses of instruction designed to promote the acquisition of all knowledge and may not be hindered under restriction to prevent it, and that our teachers may be encouraged to know and to teach the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. This is the path of salvation of men and democracy."

QUAKE FELT IN MIDWEST AREA

Loud Rumbling and Shaking of Houses Noticed in Indiana and Kentucky

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—An earthquake centering about 100 to 150 miles east of St. Louis probably in Indiana was recorded in the seismograph of St. Louis university at 5:50 1/2 a. m. The tremor was characterized by Brother Ruess, as "unusually violent."

SHAKES HOUSES Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—Earthquake shocks were reported from several places in Kentucky.

At Louisville the tremor was slight. Owensboro reported that a loud rumbling preceded a distinct shock. Houses were shaken in Madisonville.

NO DAMAGE Evansville, Ind.—(AP)—Evansville was shaken by an earthquake at a few minutes before 6 o'clock Wednesday morning. No damage was reported.

NAME DRY CHIEF FOR WESTERN WISCONSIN

Minneapolis—(AP)—Louis F. Cole, former general prohibition enforcement agent here, has been appointed assistant administrator for the northwest district in charge of enforcement in western Wisconsin.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Captain A. C. Townsend, acting prohibition commissioner, who Wednesday took charge of prohibition enforcement in the northwest district, which comprises Minnesota, North Dakota and most of Wisconsin. Mr. Cole, who was associated with Captain Townsend in enforcement work in the Chicago district, will open headquarters at Madison.

PROMISES TO RIP LID OFF AIR SERVICE

Invites War Department to "Start Something"—Writes Army Weakness Expose

San Antonio, Tex.—(AP)—Col. William Mitchell, "stormy petrel" of the air service threw a bombshell into air service circles Wednesday when war department officials began reviewing his book, "winged defense" which has been published against war department orders.

"The truth about the United States air service is going to be suppressed no longer," declared the commander of the Eighth corps area air forces to the Associated Press.

"I have disobeyed no orders," Col. Mitchell declared, although admitting that he had published his book without submitting it to his superiors for approval. "The truth of our deplorable situation is going to be put before the American people, come what may," he continued.

WELCOMES FIGHT "If the war department wants to start something, so much the better. Then I can get the case before congress and the people and then we will have a chance to remedy this unfortunate condition."

"Aviators are the only persons competent to tell what is wrong and they are going to tell, I assure you that. One fourth of the shortcomings of our air service have not yet been told, but they are going to be told."

"This book is just the beginning. I am at present preparing a series of articles which will rip the cover off those deplorable conditions."

OFF PRESS "Winged Defense," a story of the development of commercial and military aviation, came off the press Tuesday. Col. Mitchell's new book is written for the public and phrased with terms which are not bewildering to the non-flyer. The book is replete with cartoons which poke jibes at the war department. The author declares that those had been inserted by the publishers without his knowledge.

A stiff shoulder from his airplane crash on Monday failed to deter Col. Mitchell from making a flight Tuesday to test a new ship that has been prepared for him at San Antonio. Col. Mitchell flew approximately 45 minutes in the plane which is a service type DeHavilland two-seater.

SHENANDOAH READY TO START WISCONSIN TRIP

Lakehurst, N. J.—(AP)—The Shenandoah was at her mooring mast Wednesday waiting to begin late in the afternoon a five-day trip covering 11 states in order that thousands of people in the midwest might have their first view of this silvery skyscraper, one of two such upon which the navy prides itself.

BRICK LAYING DERBY NOW REPLACES CRAZE OF MARATHON DANCES

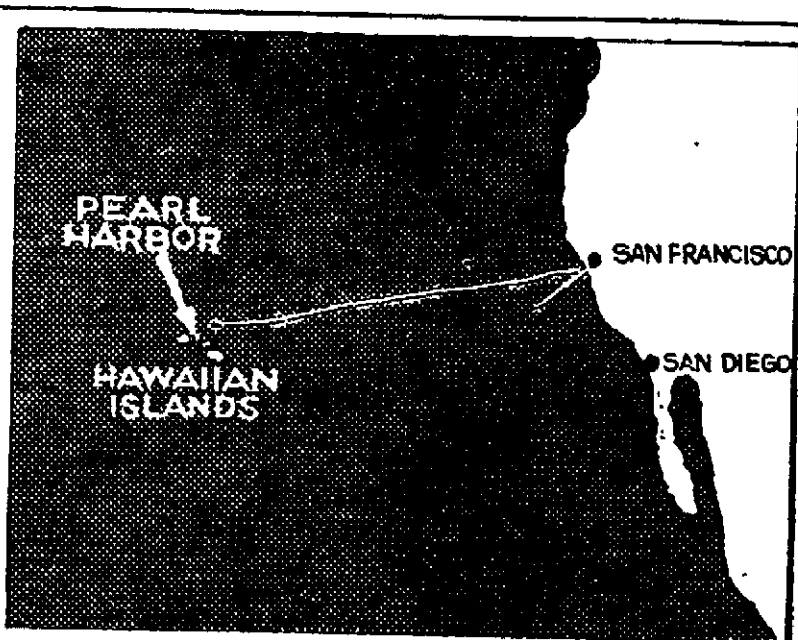

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(AP)—The dancing marathons of two or three years ago may find a counterpart in the art of bricklaying. The claim of James Brown of Missouri to the title of world's champion brick slinger is meeting with many challenges from this section of the southwest.

A news story recently told of Brown's laying 35,000 brick in an eight-hour period. A week ago E. H. Johnson laid over 50,000 bricks in one day and remarked that he ought to be fired if he couldn't put over 35,000 in place.

Now comes one Tony Glasco, of Covington, Okla., with a claim that makes Brown look like a novice and even overthrows Johnson. Glasco vows that he can put 69,600 brick in place in one day recently—$700 an hour, or 145 a minute.

The Green Construction company of this city may arrange a brick laying derby, it was announced Tuesday.

COURSE OF HAWAIIAN FLIGHT

This picture shows the route and the distance made by two of the navy seaplanes on their San Francisco to Hawaii nonstop flight, Monday and Tuesday. The Pn-9, No. 3, was forced down 300 miles off the California coast, (as shown on the shorter line) while the Pn-9, No. 1, made about 2,390 miles before coming down 300 miles from Honolulu.

President Cannot Remove Haney From Marine Board

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge has started a controversy that will inevitably lead to debate when congress reconvenes and will reopen the whole question of executive right to interfere with congressional prerogatives.

Mr. Coolidge in asking for the resignation of Bert Haney, Democrat, from the shipping board because he failed to go along with the administration policy and acted "contrary to my understanding," when the appointment was made, as the president himself phrases it, means a new turn in the use of presidential appointments.

Many an executive doubtless has had misunderstandings with prospective appointees but there is no case on record in which a president has been bold enough publicly to admit it. Mr. Coolidge re-appointed Mr. Haney last June and had a long conference with him before doing so.

"I am a democrat," said Mr. Haney Tuesday, "and naturally I have my own ideas of policy. It requires two persons to make an understanding and if the president places himself in the position of dicker with prospective appointees and wants to take the attitude that I failed to carry out his understanding that is his privilege of course."

Mr. Haney holds a recess appointment. Mr. Coolidge under the existing law can remove a duly confirmed member of the shipping board only for neglect of duty and personal conduct. He cannot remove anyone on the board on account of a difference in policy different from a government department because the shipping board is entirely ment within executive jurisdiction. It is an independent establishment created by and responsible to congress alone whose agent the board really is in executing the provisions of the merchant marine act.

Mr. Coolidge has sought legislation giving him greater power but thus far has failed to get it. Members of the shipping board feel the president has no more right over them than he has over the work of the interstate commerce commission or the federal trade commission. Yet in two or three instances in these commissions, Mr. Coolidge has attempted to put his policies into effect by simply appointing men whose agent the board really is in executing the provisions of the merchant marine act.

Bert Haney is a man of good reputation and integrity and stands high in the esteem of people of all political faiths on the Pacific coast. His particular grievance is that President Palmer of the Emergency Fleet corporation is allowing the merchant marine to run down.

It is known that five out of the seven members of the board feel about it very much as does Mr. Haney. There is some doubt about Chairman O'Connor's attitude but he is said to lean in the present controversy toward Commissioner's Thompson, Benson and Haney, Democrats, and Vice Chairman Plummer, Republican, who are opposing President Palmer's policy.

FRANK ASSUMES PREXY'S CHAIR

University Head to Keep Silent on Specific Issues Until He's Acquainted

Madison—(AP)—Eager to get to work, Dr. Glenn Frank, new president of the University of Wisconsin, was at his desk Wednesday. Here he will study the problems of the university, with the announced intention of keeping silent on "all specific university issues," until he has come to know the facts at first hand.

The ideals that President Frank will seek to perpetuate are sound scholarship and inspired teaching, productive research and practical service, freedom to investigate and "courage to follow the truth wherever it may lead."

The university is a cooperative enterprise in which the whole state must share, he declared, and the policies must come from collaboration of the president, the board of regents, the faculty, the students, the alumni and the people and their representatives.

President and Mrs. Frank and their son, Glenn, Jr., are living in a suite at a hotel. The John M. Olin residence, donated to the university by the Olin estate, will be prepared for the president's occupancy at the direction of him and his wife. The golf courses of Madison will be the recreation spots for Dr. Frank. The household pet is Joney, a wire-haired fox terrier, that is devoted to his master Glenn, Jr.

Dr. Frank said he would talk formally at the Rotary club luncheon here Thursday, his first speaking engagement since assuming the presidency.

CRAFT FORCED TO LAND NEAR FLIGHT'S END

PN-9, No. 1, Reaches Point 300 Miles from Coast of Hawaiian Islands

OCEAN SHIPS JOIN HUNT

First Plane Is Towed in at San Francisco After Failing of Long Journey

San Francisco—(AP)—Fifteen hours after the last word had been received from the missing seaplane, the Pn-9, No. 1, which failed of its San Francisco-Honolulu nonstop flight because of a shortage of fuel, Captain Moses, commander of the flight project, without word as to the fate of the plane and its crew.

Maintaining the optimism, he had felt since the plane's departure, Commander Rodgers and his four valiant fliers, was reported missing. Captain Moses expressed the belief that the aircraft and its personnel would be found soon after daybreak Wednesday.

The destroyer William Jones was reported by the marine department of the chamber of commerce entering the Golden Gate at 7:15 Wednesday morning with an airplane in tow. The plane being towed in is the Pn-9, No. 3 which gave up the nonstop flight endeavor when forced down about 300 miles out from San Francisco.

Lieut. Allan P. Snoddy, her commander, and her crew of four were unharmed. They remained in the seaplane during the 300 mile journey back to shore. The return trip was made at a speed of about ten knots. The Pn-9, No. 3 was forced down by the breaking of two oil lines.

Among those who greeted the intrepid aviators on their arrival at Crissy field was Mrs. Arthur Gavin, wife of Lieut. Gavin, Ashland, Wis., next in rank to Commander Snoddy. Mrs. Gavin, along with her arms around her husband and thanks to him for several minutes. The other members of the crew were N. H. Craven, Pilot, C. J. Sutter, machinist, and C. W. Allen, radio operator.

"We'll be ready to make another start tomorrow, if ordered," declared Lt. Snoddy.

Whether the Pn-9, No. 3 would accompany the Pn-9, No. 1 when she takes off from San Pablo bay at 2 p. m. Thursday, had not been determined early Wednesday.

START SEARCH

Honolulu—(AP)—At the first indication of dawn, airplanes and surface craft nosed out into the Pacific ready to search for the missing naval seaplane Pn-9, No. 1, which left the island for San Francisco Tuesday, when less than 100 miles from Honolulu, its destination.

With cloudy weather in prospect Wednesday and moderate sea running in the vicinity where it was believed the plane had been forced down, the searching planes took on capacity fuel loads at LaHaina ready to comb the Pacific in quest of this missing glider plane.

A message received from the destroyer Arctostook at 10:15 Tuesday night said: "No trace of plane (No. 1), which must have been forced down over 20 miles south of the Arctostook station where the estimated maximum drift is 8 miles an hour to the westward. The seas are moderate and the skies overcast."

KEEP VIGIL With the destroyer Farragut, the Arctostook spent the night moving in the area 300 miles off Honolulu, stabling the seas in the vicinity where the missing plane might have dropped disabled.

A message received from the Mississippi plane after the craft radioed that it was trying to remain in the air until the dwindling gasoline supply was exhausted, said, "What is wrong please? Go ahead," meaning the Arctostook should proceed furnishing compass bearings to Pn-9, No. 1. To this the latter answered: "What is your course and are you trying to find us?" To this message there was no answer.

The Arctostook took an all night vigil. It was ordered to launch a plane at daylight to aid in the search. The work Tuesday night was hampered off the east coast of the Island of Maui by treacherous seas and heavy skies.

INDIANAPOLIS WOMAN HEADS RELIEF CORPS

Grand Rapids, Mich.—(AP)—Mrs. Catherine McBride Hooper of Indianapolis, was chosen to succeed Mrs. Grace Willard of Los Angeles, as president of the National Women's Relief corps, here Tuesday night. Other officers were to be chosen Wednesday.

ONE PHONE FOR EACH 6 PERSONS IN WISCONSIN

100 Per Cent Increase in Use of Telephone Since 1910

Milwaukee—How the telephone has brought together the social, business and farm life of Wisconsin is clearly pictured in the figures just received by the Wisconsin Public Utility Information bureau from the latest United States Census on the Telephone Industry.

In 1910 there was but one telephone to every 12 inhabitants in Wisconsin, or approximately 153,395 phones serving the requirements of the state's 2,323,860 population. The government's figures show there now are 429,949 telephones in Wisconsin. This is one telephone for every six inhabitants in the state. While Wisconsin has witnessed a one hundred per cent increase in the use of the telephone since 1910, the population has increased only 15 per cent.

Wisconsin ranks twelfth in the number of telephones in use in each state, New York leading with 1,780,563 phones. Wisconsin, however, enjoys the distinction of being one of the foremost states in the number of farms having telephones, ranking eighth, with 111,798, which is nearly equal to the number of telephones of all classes in use in 1907.

The use of the phone and automobile in Wisconsin appear to be equally essential to the modern farmer. Of the 153,235 Badger farms, 53.1 per cent have phones and 43.6 per cent autos.

If every man, woman and child in the state had telephone service at their command, they would have heard "number, please" 256 times in a year. This illustrates how frequently the telephone is used as a means of conveying business or social messages.

Wisconsin now occupies eleventh place in the nation with respect to the number of local and long distance companies in the state completed approximately 688,817,022 calls in one year, requiring the use of 838,105 miles of wire and other plant equipment in this state alone. Of this total 679,928,107 calls were city and the other intercity.

The Wisconsin Telephone company, which does the largest part of the telephone business in Wisconsin through its ninety-five central offices, completed more than half, or 390,197,016 of the local and long distance calls placed in the last census year. Of this number, 95.6 per cent were local and 1.4 per cent long distance calls.

FIX DATE FOR DEDICATION OF M. E. CHURCH

Oct. 25 has been picked as the date set for dedicating the new Methodist church at the corner of N. Drew and E. Franklin-sts., according to Dr. J. E. Holmes, pastor. Bishop Charles Locke of St. Paul, will be in charge of the dedication services, which will be preceded by a week of festivity. These will include services of various kinds, banquets and organ recitals. No definite program for the week has been worked out as yet, however.

FIX DISTRICTS TO BE SERVED BY JUNIOR SCHOOLS

Principals Divide City into Three Sections and Apportion Pupils

Numerous requests of former residents of Appleton who are living on a dividing street in a school district and others interested in the new junior high school situation here, have caused local school principals to draw up temporary division lines for students who will attend the junior high schools this fall. The division lines were worked out at a meeting at the office of Ben J. Rohan, city superintendent of schools, Tuesday morning. The session was attended by H. H. Heible, principal of the high school, and A. G. Gostorhouse, M. H. Small, and F. E. Younger, principals of the junior high schools.

The school divisions are: A line was drawn starting at the Fox river north through the center of Oneida-st. to College-ave, then west down the center of the W. College-ave to N. Division-st. north up the center of N. Division-st. to W. Wisconsin-ave, west down the center of W. Wisconsin-ave to N. Richmond-st. north up the center of N. Richmond-st. to the city limits. All students residing west of this line will go to Wilson school this fall and all east will go to Roosevelt school with one exception. All students between E. College-ave and the Fox river, east of S. Oneida-st. can go to any school they please, the practical choice lying between the Roosevelt and McKinley schools. All students on the south side of the river will go to the McKinley school.

In this way the junior school districts will hold closely to the old district boundary lines. Three reasons for the division are: first, that approximately the same number of students will attend the two big schools; second, that the youngsters will associate with friends with whom they formerly attended school, according to Mr. Rohan. The new division though definite is only temporary, however. A permanent division must be fixed a little later by the board of education Mr. Rohan said.

IMPROVING OUR PARKS

Appleton's chances for winning the Better Cities contest inaugurated by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Works have been seriously jeopardized by the scant attention which has been given to public parks, it has been disclosed. That this city, one of the most beautiful and cultured in the middle west, has been so negligent in its provision for public recreation and entertainment, it is the sad commentary on our progressiveness. Our record for park maintenance and improvement is the poorest in Wisconsin.

Appleton ranks high in the ratio of park acreage to population, but it is deplorably low in the percentage of improved park lands, and its expenditures for park improvements and maintenance, only 76 cents for each person in the city, is the very lowest of any city in its class in Wisconsin. This condition cannot continue if Appleton hopes to maintain its reputation as a desirable city in which to live.

The late Henry Reuter, while mayor, opened the way to systematic park improvement by appointing a board of park commissioners, but unfortunately little has been done so far toward making our parks usable. The commissioners this year completed a plan for a comprehensive improvement of Pierce park but the plan was nullified when it was discovered that the legislature had changed a law to make it impossible for the board to float a bond issue to finance the work. It was the intention of the commissioners to concentrate on Pierce park this year. Later other parks were to be given similar treatment.

But the plans and specifications are gathering dust in the city hall, and there is no indication when they will be used. It is understood that it is the intention of the park commissioners to ask the city council to provide the money so that the improvement plans can be carried out, but so far nothing of an official nature has been done.

The council soon will prepare its estimates of receipts of expenditures for the next year, and it should include a liberal sum for park improvement in its budget. It is true that a large increase in city revenue will not be possible but improvement of parks is so important that the council can, if it has a will, effect sufficient economies in other departments in city government to provide a sum to permit the work so carefully planned.

Not very much can be expected in the way of park improvement on an appropriation which averages 76 cents per person, and the people cannot expect much for that money. But what is the use of having parks if we cannot use them? The money which Appleton has invested in park acreage is lost to the people until the parks are made usable. The council and the park commission should consider this when the next tax levy is prepared and include in it a sum sufficient for systematic park improvement.

COMPANIONSHIP

"God, love and money" are given as the "three prime consolations known to man in the difficulty of his life" by Christopher Morley. Morley says that with all three consolations man is supremely happy, with one of them he is contented and with none of them his life is filled with despair and is empty of all joy. Every community knows its members who having God ask nothing more from life. With them God is love and money and life itself. There are other men and women who have love and desire nothing more. They obviously give neither thought nor care to God or money. As for the members of the human family who are happy with their "money bags," they appear contented in their work of making and spending money. All three of these groups seem to find life worth the living and are probably seldom heard to complain.

But perhaps there is a fourth consolation unsung by sage Morley, but none the less consoling to man. This fourth consolation is the power to think. There is no greater consolation than the ability to think alone. Relatively few people can tolerate meditating solitude, but many envy those who can. There are men and women who know of no better company than their own thoughts. They are called philosophers and their thoughts and words are eagerly sought after by solitude-fearing people. We will extend Morley's prime consolations to include "thought."

Consoling ourselves with thought don't we finally find that all four consolations are but symbols of something else—companionship? Why does man turn to God, love, money or his thoughts but for company? Isn't it a fact in the final analysis that man's one consolation is society, not necessarily of people, but of something? Some then will find consolation in God, others in love, others in money and still others in their thoughts, but all in the companionship thus offered to them:

THE TURKISH WIFE

Mrs. Mustapha Kemal Pasha, blushing bride of the newly elected president of Turkey a couple of years back, was to stand before the world a symbol of the unshackling of Turkish womanhood. The new first lady of Turkey did not veil her handsome countenance, nor keep her opinions meekly to herself. And Mustapha, great and generous statesman, was reported to pride himself upon her freedom.

The education of Turkish womanhood, the gradual removal of harem polygamy, and the entrance of the sex into Turkish political affairs were all hailed in the ideal match of the young soldier-president and his Madama Latife. But alas for ideals!

The beautiful romance is broken; and Mustapha Kemal Pasha, with no more compunction than an American farmer would evince toward the disposal of a troublesome horse, has "issued" a divorce relieving himself of the encumbrance of a wife who was foolish enough to air political ideas. He does not care for her assistance, it seems, in the parlous affairs of state. Considering the abruptness of his action, it seems doubtful whether he really did in the first place. His fair Latife was an aid to news reel and similar propaganda in the United States, which Kemal at the time was seeking to placate and win over. It was at the period when Admiral Colby Chester was telling Americans that the average young Turk looked and acted like an American college boy; that the Turks were a fine, clean, honorable nation, and that we should strenuously back them by investment.

The investment has not been forthcoming; Turkey has fallen back into economic stagnation; and, his emancipated wife having failed him for publicity purposes, Kemal has emancipated himself from her advice. The Women's party and other sex equality organizations looking for more worlds to conquer might profitably move their headquarters to Angora.

CAMPING

Come on, all you kiddies who like to go camping. Let's hit a spot far away. Let's pack up our luggage and set out a tramping. There's really no time like today.

I know a great place that is shady and cool and surrounded by shrubbery and trees. Its right on the bank of a small winding pool and the water's just up to your knees.

We'll dress in the oldest of clothes that we've got and we'll swim and we'll row and we'll fish. There's plenty of shade where we'll hide when it's hot. Say, tell me, what more could you wish?

You simply can't know of the wonderful fun, till a real camping trip you have had. Right now is the season when camping is done. Say, why not suggest it to dad?

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address: Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

NOT SO MUCH MINISTER

The minister first wrote about the ideas of March inquiring how quickly one could reduce weight. For example, he said, in slightly over 2 1/2 weeks I have taken off 10 pounds, making my present weight 158 pounds. My height is 66 1/2 inches. This reduction was achieved through definite reduction of diet to under 2,000 calories per diem, with increased exercise, chiefly walking. I am interesting our Boy Scouts in setting up exercises, and this has given me a lot of fun and exercise. My ambition is to weigh 150 pounds when I go to summer school June 20.

I see, the minister continues, that a medical student is to attempt a special test, whereby he'll eat only when hungry. I feel that we men of sedentary habits can do with a lot less than others; and yet when I get to walking around on pastoral work I do get most horribly famished.

There's not a thing wrong with me physically, according to life insurance examiners. I shall be grateful for anything you suggest.

I can't remember just now what I suggested, but I doubt I gave the minister an earful. Somehow his letter gave me the impression that he had good sense about health questions—which I find but rarely in ministers. Anyhow, July 1 I heard from the minister again:

I've been and gone and done it. That is, as you may or may not recall, I've reached the point of my ambition in weight. Last spring—with a bit of easing on from you—I set something like 150 pounds as my goal before vacation time. July 1 finds me 149 1/2 pounds in weight.

And to show that it has been done without any great internal disturbance, this is the report of a urinalysis made by the Prudential Longevity service (we need not print the report here—it was all normal).

I must say I feel better. Food has no mastery of me. I know what I want when I want it. No breakfast half the time, except grapefruit juice or coffee; dinner not too hearty, keeping daily calories to about 1,500; supper light. I have got used to being hungry a fair proportion of the time. I enjoy my food, and have my appetite, and all that, but I am boss around this tummy of mine.

My mother is a bit old fashioned. She weeps (figuratively) over my refusal to eat. She threatens dire things. A cow, she says, she eats. (By the way, if there are many dieters afraid of anemia, you might say something of value about that.)

I can eat a nickel's worth of candy once a week without tears. I can even accept an invitation once in a while to a soda. I do not know that I have stabilized my weight at 150, but I shall try.

Now be a good fellow and give me a bit of cheer, perhaps with some good advice for a poor hungry soul.

I have the impression that I received a letter from this same sky pilot quite a while ago about his weight or something, but never mind that.

Being hungry a good proportion of the time is a good deal more akin to happiness—which is good health, isn't it?—than being surfeited with food. Most of the time. Being hungry like that is something like getting tired from honest work—a sensation which a lot of misguided folk never know.

Whenever some old fellow who has bent or fractured all the laws of hygiene and twisted all the laws of health to suit his own abnormal notions complains about his insomnia or his weariness and discouragement, I wish we had courts of hygiene where we could arraign such offenders and have them sentenced to reasonable terms of honest work.

The Question Box

A Little Knowledge Is A Dangerous Thing.

He who knows but a little of everything and nothing completely remains a little being to the end of his days. Learn thoroughly! Learn completely! You can do this by attending our free school, the University of Information. We will answer any question of fact propounded to us. We can broaden your knowledge. Q. What salary does an ex-President receive? W. A. M.

A. He receives no salary for having been President.

Q. When and how was the title "Reverend" given to clergymen? D. S.

A. "Reverend" was generally used throughout England in the fifteenth century as a title of respect. A young man would address his senior or superior as "Reverend-Sir." The habit was continued in respect to the clergy and by the 17th century it was generally used as a title. It was established custom, not authority, and belongs to no special denomination.

Q. How are sea gull's eggs found? L. W.

A. There is no particular process or system by which an "eggster" searches for sea gull's eggs. Such birds make no attempt at building a nest but deposit their one egg anywhere on the bare ground. Breeding grounds are located by the study of the birds' habits—they travel in colonies so that they are easily found.

Q. Has a second moon been discovered travelling around the earth? W. J. B.

A. The Naval Observatory says that it is conceivable that certain unexplained irregularities in the motion of the moon may be due to the attraction of a second moon; but no such body has ever been seen, and even the possibility of its existence is very rarely mentioned in astronomical literature.

Q. How did men dress about 1830? H. L.

A. The wig and the pigtail went out of fashion early in the 18th century and gentlemen wore their hair rather long and freely oiled. Loose cockade trousers, high waisted vests, and voluminous cravats were in fashion. The shirt collar was often worn turned up with the points showing above the cravat. The coat cut away square in the front went out of date and the style replaced it resembles the present frock coat. A phrase in Bulwer Lytton's "Pelham" (1828), "People must be very distinguished in appearance to look well in black" started the fashion of black for evening dress. High silk hats reached their perfection in the thirties and masculine dress has changed very little since then.

Q. Where did the chinchilla rabbit come from? E. I.

A. Little is known of the history of the chinchilla rabbit and as one breeder expressed it "We are satisfied that the rabbit is here—how it came is yet to be ascertained." Color is one of the most important points of this rabbit. Each individual hair consists of first, a band of medium gray very near to the skin; then a band of light silver gray; a band of dark blue; band of gray and lastly a number of hairs with black ends or ticking.

Q. Who made the flag, which inspired Key to write the "Star Spangled Banner"? F. H.

A. It was made by Mrs. Mary Pickens, who lived at the northwest corner of Pratt and Albemarle Streets, Baltimore, Maryland.

Adventures In The Library

HOW EUGENE O'NEILL BROKE INTO PRINT

It is always interesting to discover how any particular writer who has won fame broke into print. Once some years ago a popular magazine for a long time conducted a department, "How They Roke Into Print," recounting the struggles of young authors to get their work accepted by the publishers.

But that was before Eugene O'Neill, today the most discussed playwright in America, made his fight for recognition. O'Neill was as much rejected by publishers and managers as falls the lot of most writers, and there are some producers today who would give their eyeteeth if they could have foreseen O'Neill's fame and could have accepted the works offered to them but that they did not accept because they saw who money in them.

His first full length play was "Beyond The Horizon" and it took him three years to get it produced. He took it to an intelligent manager who saw some merit in it and who bought an option to produce it. But he did not seem to have the courage of his dramatic convictions, and so he let it lie in his office for a year or two. Two gathering dust and nothing else. One day it was discovered there by Richard Bennett, the actor, who became enthusiastic and who decided to produce it. It was an immediate success and it "made" Eugene O'Neill.

FEARED TO LOSE

But even that experience did not teach the producers wisdom. O'Neill writes plays that are radically different from the usual kind of thing seen in the theatres and the managers are always obsessed with the idea that anything that departs from the usual will not make money. So when O'Neill he could not get it produced. In all it took four years after the play was written before it was put on the boards. It was owned by several managers in succession, each of whom recognized its merit as strong piece of dramatic writing but each of whom feared that it would not be a money maker. But when it was finally produced it made a great deal of money for the luck manager who took the risk—and its success doubtless made those managers who had once owned it green with envy.

Eugene O'Neill has had a rather unconventional career. As a young man he was considered a failure and a good-for-nothing by most of those who knew him including his father, a distinguished actor who was driven to despair by his son's failure to take hold of anything. He was sent to college but life at school proved too dull and he ran away. He became a vagabond and a common scoundrel. He wandered about the world for some time and became acquainted with all sorts of people in all sorts of places, chiefly waterfront saloons. He learned the conventional facts about history and literature, and mathematics that are acquired in college he learned a more choice collection of picturesque swear words than is probably found in any other single man's vocabulary, and he had that vocabulary to singularly effective use in his plays. And he learned how roughnecks talk and think.

ABOUT ROUGHNECKS

And for the most part those roughnecks make up the material of his plays. There is seldom or never a person in a white collar to be found in an O'Neill play. He writes adequately of the sea, using to good advantage the things he learned while roaming about on it when his father wanted him to be in college. And he often places his scenes in waterfront drinking places, brothels and other extremely unconventional places. No wonder the conventional managers were afraid to produce his stuff.

But the managers had guessed wrong and the public has shown that it wanted something different from what the managers thought it wanted. O'Neill is a playwright of great power and although he has consistently refused to write the way managers wanted him to write he has won the approval of the public. In addition to being produced all his plays have been printed and they have the unusual merit of "reading well." Incidentally two of them have won the Pulitzer prize.

FIXING THOUGHTMARKS IN MANHATTAN STREETS

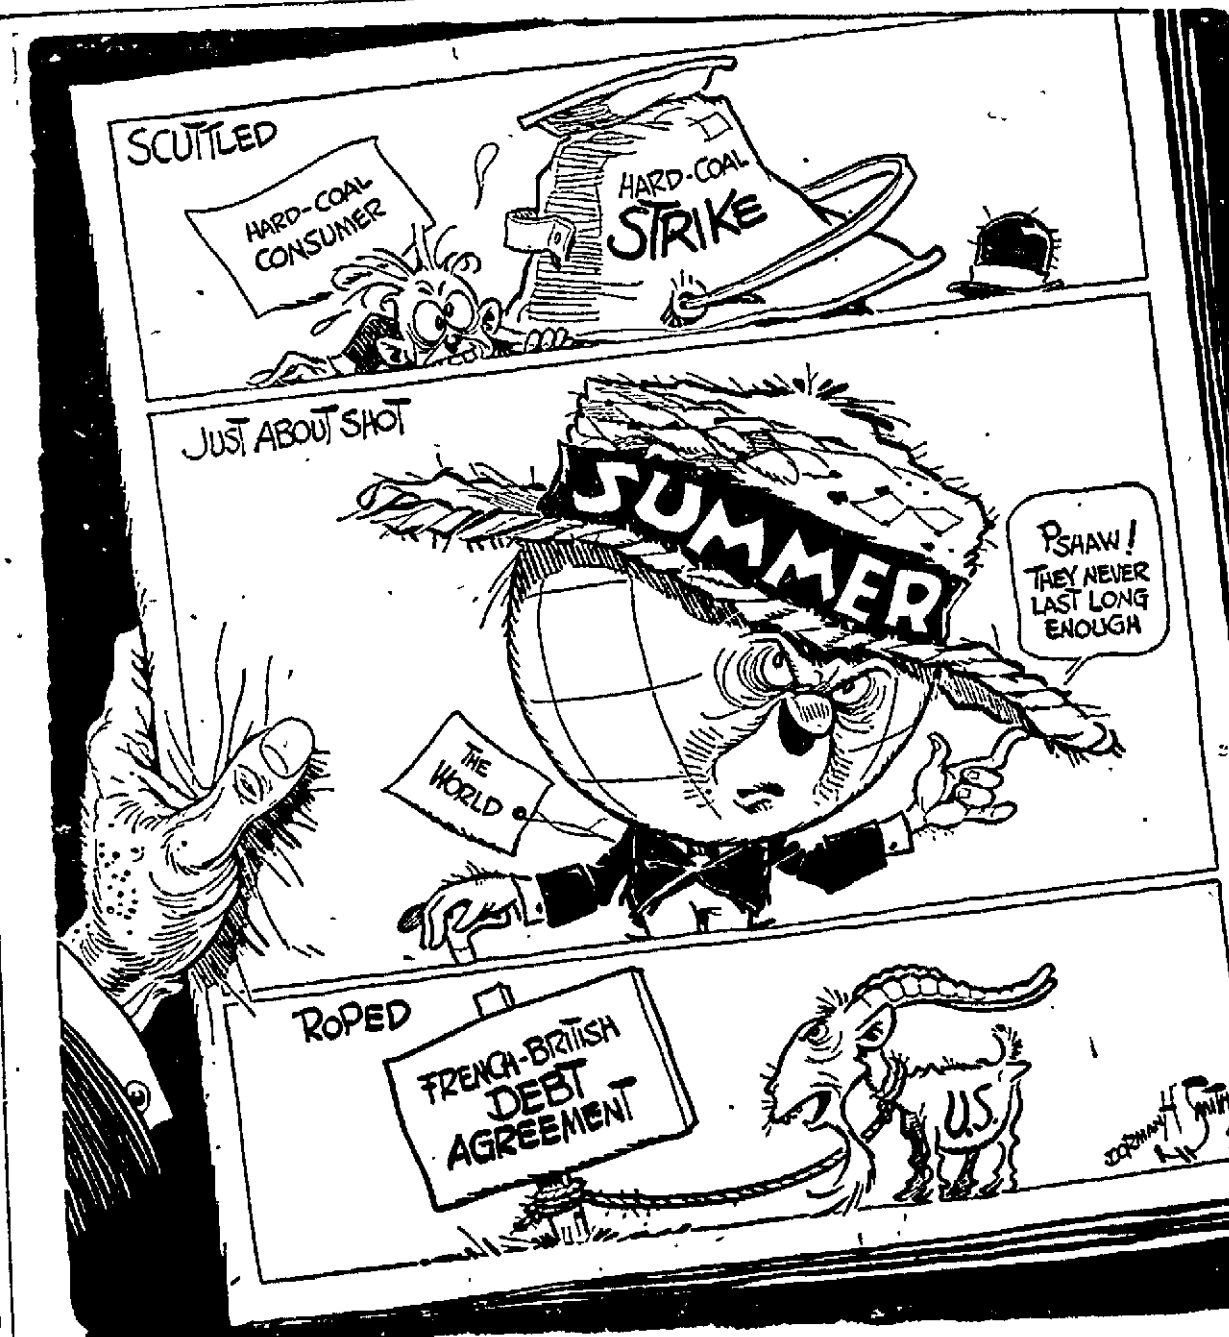

From The Bowling Green By Christopher Morley. The Saturday Review of Literature.

It is dangerous to fix undue affection on any antique, landmark in New York; when you have learned to love and understand it, suddenly it disappears. Henceforward I shall have to specialize more in thought marks. The other day I went to show a man that old courtyard that opened off an alley in Ann-st. There was a dark smelly there, and a round brick building which (I've been told) was the original Astor fur warehouse. The fur cap that old Johnjake was wearing when Walt Whitman saw him, probably came from there.

This little cul de sac was much esteemed by the Three Hours for Lunch club; occasionally in its rambles, the visionary committee of the club would brood in there and concoct schemes for founding the Ann-st. Country club. The old raffish cellar, with its open hearths and dark corners, would make the pleasantest chop-house in New York, and very unlike our many Old English chopping houses where visiting English men feel themselves so hilariously ill at ease.

Upstairs would be bedrooms, the quietest in the city, for Ann-st. is all darkness and dream by dinner time; the cobbled yard would be corded for a small bowling green; it would have been the last and loveliest shred of ancient Manhattan. But going there for another look, nothing remains but a quart of rubble brick and stacked timbers. It is an ill thing to postpone one's dreams.

Expect 1000 At Picnic Of Masons

Preparations to provide amusement for more than 1,000 persons at the annual picnic of Waverly lodge of the Masonic order at Utopia beach Monday afternoon were gotten under way by A. H. Wickesberg, general chairman, with the appointment of 16 Masons as division chairmen. All tasks connected with the outing have been divided up so there will be no confusion in the handling of the crowds and automobiles and also to make sure that the fun program will move swiftly after the picnicers arrive.

These division chairmen are divided into groups with a member of the executive committee in charge of each. George T. Wetters' group consists of Elmer Jensen, in charge of children's games; Charles Sheldon, fellowship; Erik L. Madsen, invitations and publicity; F. G. Schwandt, guide signs. Mr. Wetters will have charge also of the children's prizes, picnic novelties, road signs and chairs.

Chairmen in George H. Packard's section are E. M. Garrow, transportation; W. D. Schaefer, parking; Frank Hammer, horseshoe pitching; G. L. Carlton, baseball. A. C. Remley's staff consists of Lacey Horton, lemonade stand; William H. Rocks, ice cream stand; John Trautman, coffee. The division headed by Oscar Johnson includes Fred Schmitt, cigar distribution; Mike Schmeider, drayage; Anselm Stenborg, hat booth; Lacey Horton, parking of grounds.

Mr. Garrow will have a fleet of automobiles at Masonic temple at 1:30 Monday afternoon to take families to the beach, which is two miles east of Waverly beach on highway 114. Last year's picnic had to be cancelled because of rain, but if it rains this year an indoor picnic will be held at Masonic temple instead. The temple was not ready for occupancy a year ago.

LODGE NEWS

The Auxiliary of Spanish War Veterans is to meet at 10 o'clock Thursday morning at the corner of W. Wisconsin and N. Richmond st. to hike to the home of Mrs. George Schwandt on Mackville, where it will spend the day. Each member is to take a basket of food for the basket dinner that will be served at noon.

Five candidates were initiated at the meeting of Loyal Order of Moose Tuesday evening in Moose temple. Routine business was discussed.

Royal Neighbors will have a regular business meeting at 7:45 Thursday evening in Odd Fellows hall. Mrs. Rummington of Rock Island, Ill. and Mrs. Ida Olson of Oshkosh will be guests of the lodge and probably will give talks on Fraternism.

Election of officers will take place at the meeting of Knights of Columbus at 8 o'clock Thursday night in Catholic home. Plans for a program for the coming year will be made.

A treasurer to succeed the late Herman G. Saecker will be elected Friday evening at a meeting of Knights Templar in Masonic temple. The meeting will be the first held by the Knights Templar since spring.

Regular business was discussed at the meeting of Pythian Sisters Tuesday evening in Castle hall. This was the first meeting after the summer vacation and it was decided to hold meetings on the first and third Tuesday of each month.

Women's Relief Corp. Auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic, is to meet at 2:30 Friday afternoon in Odd Fellows hall. Mrs. Loretta Lorenz is chairman of arrangements for the luncheon to be given after the business meeting.

Plans for a social to be held on Sept. 15, were made at the meeting of Fraternal Reserve association Tuesday evening in Gil Myse hall. Mrs. Helen Richter was appointed chairman of arrangements for the meeting.

The annual election of officers will take place at the meeting of Women's Christian Temperance union at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Glaser, 542 N. Clark-st. Plans for a program for the coming year will be made and superintendents of different departments will be appointed.

CLUB MEETINGS

Members of the U Go I Go club were entertained at a picnic supper and wicker roast Tuesday evening on the river bank near Riverside sanatorium. After the supper the girls hiked the Kaukauna, returning on the interurban. Plans are being made for another outing to be held next week.

Mrs. Julius Homblotte, Mrs. August Knoll and Mr. Herman Seltz won prizes at schaffkopf at the meeting of the Four Leaf Clover club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Schulz, 115 W. Seymour-st. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wetzel.

The U. Y. C. Bridge club met Tuesday evening at Appleton Women's club. Prizes at bridge were won by Lorraine Green and Joyce Strutz. At the meeting Wednesday, Sept. 2, officers will be elected.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Isadore and family of Marquette, Mich., Mrs. Andrew Ries and daughter and Mrs. D. Cleveland and daughter left Wednesday morning for Milwaukee to attend the state fair and to visit relatives.

ROYAL LOVERS

Princess Helena, 16, of Rumania, and the Duke of Apulia, 26, a major in the Italian army, whose engagement was announced at Rome.

DE MOLAY TO PICK OFFICERS AT MEETING

Election of officers will take place at the first fall meeting of John E. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay, at 7:30 Thursday evening in Masonic temple. Plans to send a number of members of the chapter to the Eastern Star state meeting in September at Milwaukee will be made. The program for the coming year will be discussed and other business will be discussed.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

St. Paul Ladies Aid society will have a meeting at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school hall. Regular business will be discussed, followed by a social hour.

The Women union of St. John church will have a regular meeting at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the basement of the church. Routine business will be transacted.

There will be a meeting of the Women's Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the church. The hostesses are Mrs. Martin Lueders and Mrs. A. J. Bauer.

Club Sets Up Work In Hand Crafts

One of the most interesting parts of the program of Appleton Women's club for 1925-26 will be worked out by officials of the club this week when the handcraft course for the entire year is set up. The course includes several useful features and all will be one course this year instead of in separate classes as in the past.

Included in the handcraft course are classes in basketry, chair caning, sewing, wax work, photography, constructing plaques, crepe paper work, such as making lamp shades, decorations, etc., and weaving rush bottoms for chairs. Basketry classes will begin the course, to be followed immediately by the others. Each class was separate last year, and not as an entire handcraft course. All of the work, however, will fall in the "hope to have" class if not enough register for the work, club officials said. None of the classes will be organized if the number of those desiring the work is not large enough. Experienced leaders will be secured by the club for all classes.

The musical work of the club will have special attention this year. A glee club will be formed and ukulele lessons will be given. The club and the "uke" class will meet on the same night. Miss Elsie Mau will aid in glee club work. A number of "home talent" programs for girls of the two groups are being planned and these will be put on at Sunday afternoon cosies and at musical meetings.

Twenty-Four Hours To Live!

What would you do if you only had one more day to live?
You wouldn't work all day, would you? You'd probably knock off work and spend a whole day being lazy—just for once.

Isn't it rather foolish then, to work so hard when you can easily have at least one extra day a week to be lazy in—and do so many of the things you've wanted to do.

You don't have to do the family washing. Why get a few extra crimps in your back (and temper) when there are other people who get better pay than the average wife for doing the hard work for you?

Our Damp Wash Service only costs 5c a pound. And we can do your washing just as well as you can—if not better—and you're not all fagged out after it's done, either.

RIDGE ACROSS CREEK TO COST ABOUT $13,000

Council Gets Plan for Steel Structure Across Konkapot Stream

Kaukauna—Plans were submitted to the H. C. Klyce, for the Harrington, owned and Ashe company, for a bridge to be built over Konkapot creek at the regular monthly meeting of the city council Tuesday evening in the council chambers.

The proposed bridge is to be of steel construction, with a span of about 80 feet, and would cost about $13,000. Mr. Klyce was asked by some of the aldermen whether concrete would be cheaper and he said it would be about $10,000. After a long discussion, the council decided to build the bridge.

A special lighting system is being planned by Otto Hass who is in charge of that part of the bridge. It is estimated that about 2,000 people will attend. This is to be the first of a series of "stunts" planned by the merchants for advertising Kaukauna.

The affair is being supported by popular subscription, and the committee, George Egan, chairman, Herbert Hassel, Otto Hass and H. K. Derus, have reported success and cooperation in their first efforts Tuesday to raise the necessary funds.

Social Items

Kaukauna—Mrs. F. M. Schmidt entertained the Sunshine club at her home Wednesday afternoon.

Knights of Columbus Ladies will hold their first meeting of the fall and winter season Thursday afternoon in the K. of C. room. The following will be hostesses: Mrs. Archie Crevere, Mrs. Louis Crevere, Mrs. John Dettlen, Mrs. George Dogot, Mrs. J. Faust, Mrs. G. J. Flanagan and Mrs. Peter Feller.

START CONCRETE WORK ON BRIDGE NEXT WEEK

Kaukauna—Pouring of concrete will be started next week on the new bridge being built over the Fox river at the east end of Wisconsin-ave. according to Joseph McCarty whose company is in charge of the work.

Steel work has been finished on the east end of the bridge over the rapids, and the first concrete will be poured there.

M'CARTY AWARDED BIG PAVING JOB IN EAST

Kaukauna—A $91,500 paving project will be started by the McCarty Construction company at Clarion, Pa., next week according to Joseph McCarty. This is one of a series of jobs awarded to the local company. It will take about two months to complete the work.

The company just finished about 6 1/2 miles of concrete pavement near Shippensburg, a small village not far from Clarion. This job was started in April and the work was not complete until about two weeks ago. This project involved $262,000.

HENDRICKS SIGNS TO FIGHT IN APPLETON

Kaukauna—Walter (Washie) Hendricks signed a contract Tuesday to fight Joe Bush of Sheboygan, in the 6-round opener of a fight card at Appleton Thursday, Sept. 24. All the fight fans of Kaukauna will follow "Washie" to Appleton to see him keep up his fine record. "Washie" is working hard in his quarters at the Legion building. He has fought seven fights so far, of which he won six and fought the other to a draw.

STILL ROOM FOR PUPILS IN "PRACTICE" SCHOOL

Kaukauna—The model school department of Outagamie Rural Normal school will open Tuesday, September 8. This is a regular school course for children from the first to the sixth grades of the rural normal school in which the pupils get practical experience in teaching.

Any children in the city are eligible to enroll in the model school. There still are a few seats vacant and parents desiring to have one of these reserved for their child may phone the normal school before Sept. 8.

Work has been started on redecorating the offices in the school and also the rooms used by the model school.

ASK EXTENSION OF SEWER AND WATER MAINS

Council Refers Washington-st Petition to Board — No Action on Dust Treatment

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Two petitions were presented to the common council on Tuesday evening. One called for a sewer and water main on Washington-st. from Mill-st east to the end of Washington-st, as it is now open. Extensions were asked on the grounds that the property owners had no way of securing water and disposing of sewage. The petition was signed by four property owners along the street, and was referred to the board of public works.

The second petition requested that that portion of Main-st from Kaukauna to Douglas-st, be treated with calcium chloride. It carried 21 signatures. On top of it came another with 13 signatures requesting that the street be left untouched until it should be graded and graveled. Street Supt. Albert Gesse, when asked for his opinion, advised that the street be left alone until Mill-st, which is now closed for the installation of a sewer, be opened, as the constant pouring of water during the time when it is being used as a detour would ruin the treatment of calcium chloride. The council took no action.

The proposed fire ordinance which has been drawn up in accordance with the specifications of the underwriters was read and held over until a later date.

The council, by a vote of 3 to 2, confirmed its action of the special session of last week, by which it rescinded any action taken in securing of the option on the Werner property to be used as the new cemetery.

An application of Fred Behrwald, to sell soft drinks in the Franklin house, was granted. The mayor and clerk were authorized to borrow $10,000.

COUNCIL VOTES TO REPAIR CITY HALL AND P. O.

Also Grants Group of Building Permits and Refers Others to Board

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—A number of applications for building permits were disposed of by the city council, at its regular meeting in the council chambers Tuesday evening. The applications of Charles Goltz, to move a garage and shed, of Gustave Radtke, to build a garage, of C. Colwitz and Mrs. Emma Miller, for improvements on residences, and of Jacob Werner, for improvement on his store were all granted, after having been referred to the board of public works at previous meetings. The applications of George Popke to build a house, and of Jake Herres to build a garage, were both referred to the board of public works.

A letter was received from the post-office department at Washington asking that repairs be made to the part of the city hall which houses the local postoffice. Floors, walls and ceilings will be gone over in general. The council chambers and the fire station are also to be rejuvenated in the near future.

Mr. Draefke appeared before the council and reported that someone was in the act of throwing garbage onto the streets. The city limits from Mill-st to the high bridge over the Chicago and Northwestern tracks. The road runs past his property, he said, and some other person was in the habit of taking the garbage from the road and dumping it into his property. The board of public works will look into the matter.

DROUTH PARCHES CROPS IN DAKOTA

The Rev. H. P. Freeling Finds Climate There Hottest He Has Experienced

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Rev. H. P. Freeling, who has returned to this city after having spent the last three weeks touring and visiting in South Dakota, gave an interesting report on conditions as they exist in that state, when interviewed on Tuesday.

He states that crops throughout the state are very poor, due to a very heavy drought which tended to make the grain and other produce shrivel and dry up. Where an acre ought to yield 15 to 18 bushels, it is only giving from 6 to 10. The climate throughout the state is far hotter than any he has experienced in Wisconsin. He reports, He cites an instance when, after a severe windstorm, the thermometer registered 108 degrees in the shade.

Corn, which had been growing green in the fields, was dried to a crisp. He says that the climate in this part of Wisconsin is far better than any which he experienced during the entire trip.

GAS IN STOMACH HURTS THE HEART

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal.

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly banish gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia in powder or tablet form, at very small cost—but be sure you get BISURATED Magnesia—recommended by Doctors and Druggists throughout the civilized world for more than 13 years. adv.

CHRYSLER SIX

Women Are Quick To Sense Chrysler Quality

The Chrysler Six taught the American public that neither high cost nor cumbersome size is necessary to the superfine motor car.

That's the reason for the ever-strengthening hold of the new Chrysler Six upon the great numbers of discriminating men and women who are not satisfied with anything short of the utmost in motor car quality, comfort and performance.

Women especially find the Chrysler Six the ideal personal car—easy to handle, carefree, smooth running and delightful in its ease of riding.

The situation today is perfectly plain. Chrysler Six engineering, achieving even more revolutionary results, has simply made it unnecessary to pay a huge premium for motoring luxury.

In roadability, in generous seating capacity, in every phase of performance, in dependability and in long life, this new Chrysler Six equals, or surpasses, all the other fine cars.

Yet its new purchase price is far lower. Its upkeep cost is far lower. Its operating cost is far lower.

Add to this, the irresistible riding and driving appeal of the Chrysler Six to the man and woman who know motor cars—and you have one conclusive reason why new Chrysler Six sales mount month after month to new high marks.

Try this Chrysler Six performance yourself. We are always eager to have you prove the car's unprecedented results to your own satisfaction.

Registry Shows 309 Cars for August—Myron Nelson Is Tennis Champion

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—The officer in charge of Waupaca campsite, J. F. Knudson, reports that 1,041 persons registered at the campsite during the month of August, also that 309 cars were registered and 21 of them for more than one day.

Col. Gus Bronson, veteran traveling shoe salesman, resumed his duties on the road Tuesday, after an absence since early in December when he fell on a slippery walk and was forced to retire.

John Peterson has been awarded first prize as the season's best waltzer, by a vote taken throughout the summer at the Indian Crossing Casino. A special waltz night was held each Monday since the opening and a vote taken. Monday night of this week was the final.

Prof. G. E. Watson is now occupying the Hugo Lea residence on S Main-st.

Lone Pine boy scouts attended church in a body Sunday evening at Ogdensburg.

The local Masonic lodge attended the funeral services of George A. Griffin at Iola Monday afternoon.

DEFEATS BROTHER
Myron Nelson, 13-year-old son of Thorvald Nelson, 506 N. Franklin-st., won the city tennis championship in an elimination tournament held by the local tennis club. Young Nelson has progressed fast in tennis this summer and has received favorable comment in other cities. A strange situation existed in the finals when Emil Nelson, brother of Myron, beat all his opponents up to the finals, then met his younger brother and was defeated.

Plans for the Indian Crossing Labor day celebration have been announced by J. G. Cornwell, manager of the Casino. The program includes rodeo, canoe races, sack races, three legged races and many other contests. Dancing will continue through the afternoon and evening.

GOLF CLUB POPULAR
According to the secretary of Waupaca Golf club more than 500 visitors have registered at the grounds other than the members. This number is far in excess of the number expected, which shows the relative popularity of this scenic course.

Applications for marriage licenses received during the week ending Sept. 1st for Waupaca-co were from the following couples: John H. Redman, Royaltown, and Rose Kuehl, Neenah; Lute Rich, St. Lawrence, and Bertha Woldt, Wauchekon; Edwin F. Ratzburg, Saxville, and Eva Gabrielson, Lund; Alton R. Hanson, Waupaca, and Anita Magdanz, Lind; Martin J. Hanson, Scandinavia, and Elizabeth Chennard, Chicago.

W. C. Doerfer, proprietor of the Star bakery, is having a large bake oven installed in the vacant building formerly occupied by a market. The oven is of large capacity and is being built on rollers so it may be moved into his present quarters after building operations are complete.

BUILDINGS BURN AT M'GLIN FARM
Third Fire Occurs in Vicinity of Bear Creek Within About a Week's Time

Special to Post-Crescent
Bear Creek—The third disastrous fire here within about a week occurred at 11:30 Tuesday night when the large dairy barn and other buildings at the William McGlin farm, three miles southwest of the village in town of Bear Creek, burned to the ground. Loss of about $15,000 was suffered by Mr. McGlin, who carried some insurance.

Flames wiped out practically all the buildings except the home. The barn was filled with hay and other crops, including grain which had not been threshed, and the structure and everything in it was consumed. A granary and machine shed also went. Among the machinery ruined was a small coupe owned by Robert Tyrrell, brother of Mrs. McGlin. Horses and chickens in the buildings were rescued and the other livestock was out in the fields at the time.

The McGlin family was asleep when the fire broke out and it was discovered only through the arrival of a son, Roy, who came home from a dance just as the smoke began pouring from the building. He aroused the family and an effort was made to save some of the contents of the buildings. The fire made such fast headway, however, that nothing could be done except to prevent the home from being united also.

Infection Follows Accident in Which Resident Near Clintonville Is Burned

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville — John Brown, who works on the farm for Mr. Bernhagen on the highway between Clintonville and Embarrass, had the misfortune to spill a pail of hot water on his side and scalded himself severely. Infection set in causing him a great deal of trouble. He is under the care of a local doctor and is doing nicely. The little daughter of Frank Keller fell into a pan of scalding water and was badly burned.

Mrs. Myra Melike entertained Friday evening at a five-hundred party in honor of Mrs. J. E. Lyles of Birmingham, Alabama. Two tables were played. Mrs. Clarence Tibbitts of Marion, winning high score and Mrs. J. E. Lyles for her home in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Lyons are the parents of twin daughters born Saturday.

Mrs. Elmer Lang entertained a few relatives and friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of her husband's birthday anniversary Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Devine entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Powell and daughter Miriam Saturday at a 6 o'clock dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Powell and daughter, Miriam, left Tuesday for Florida where they will make their home. They went by way of Washington, D. C.

Jerry Hurley of Lebanon visited over the weekend with his son, Floyd Hurley, and family and daughter, Mrs. Lyman Stevens.

George Spiegel went to Milwaukee Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Draeger and daughter, Dorothy Mae, autoed to Tipton Sunday to visit relatives.

A. G. Melike, Norman Abraham and Orville Rumlly of Oshkosh, came here to visit Sunday at Mr. Melike's home and to go trout fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. David Meisner, Mr. and Mrs. William Lutz and daughter of Bonduel, and Miss Margaret Lutz were callers in the city Monday.

A. C. Haase autoed to Wausau Sunday to bring his wife and children home. They have been visiting the past week with Mr. and Mrs. W. Gerschen, Mrs. Haase's parents.

Mrs. Herman Hoeft of Memphis, Tenn., is visiting with her cousin, Mrs. Robert Haase.

Miss Lila Finnegan and Joseph Finnegan of Gillett, Mrs. A. J. Stuelke and children of Racine, and Miss Margaret Mayer of Gillett, spent Sunday at the F. C. Schwalbach home.

Miss Jeanette Schultz spent Saturday and Sunday at Hilbert.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Curtiss and son Ray spent Sunday at the home of the latter's sister, Mrs. J. H. Murphy.

height of a brilliant social success here, because of scandalous stories that have been spread about the model for the famous statue. Johnnie Walker is the dashing young American who doesn't believe the stories, but who doesn't believe in Mimi.

Miss Pennington's performance was a revelation to those who know her only as a dancer. She's a born actress, with a tremendous emotional appeal and she handles the brilliant role of Mimi with finished artistry. Incidentally she has an opportunity to do some of the dances that won her fame and she does them as only Ann Pennington can. Her beautiful little gauze face screens superbly. The 23 year old face seems to be a great deal older than she is on the screen as she is in the follies—and that's the ultimate in favoritism.

An added feature is the first screen appearance of Vincent Lopez and his jazz band. It is a remarkable fact that they prove nearly as stimulating in the silent drama as they do when playing music. The screen shows that their success is due not only to the music they make, but to the way in which they put it over.

The picture was directed by Burton King and he made a fine job of it. There are a number of big sets with crowds of fashionable people appearing, and they are a treat to the eye.

Also Aesop's Fables, News, Pathé Comedy and song trailer with local singer.

NEW BIJOU SHOW HAS AN ATTRACTIVE TITLE
If the action of "Her Accidental Husband" lives up to its curiosity arousing title, picture theatre-goers are in store for a rare treat.

This production a six-reel modern drama, comes to the New Bijou theatre today and Thursday. The cast embraces such favorites as Miriam Cooper, Forrest Stanley, Mitchell Wayne and Kate Lester. The picture was directed by Dallas M. Fitzgerald.

Advance announcements declare "Her Accidental Husband" to contain in plentiful quantities the elements of human interest, heart action and suspense are laid against a modern society background, one of the tense moments of the story occurs when the husband and his false friend wage a battle of life and death on the brink of a precipice while the wife watches helplessly from below.

"HALF WAY GIRL" IS NEW FILM THRILLER
Japanese coolies, oriental dancing girls, leopards, a ship of fire at sea—these are a few of the features seen in "The Half Way Girl," the First National attraction showing at the Elite Theatre for the last time tonight. Doris Kenyon and Lloyd Hughes have hit featured roles, supported by Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, Sam Hardy, Teddy Sampson and others.

A SLAVE TO FASHION
Lew Cody seems to be definitely establishing himself as a romantic leading man. He plays the hero role, that of Nicholas Wentworth in Hobart Henley's production "A Slave to Fashion," which is coming to the Elite Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Cody was drafted for this part immediately following his engagement as leading man in an Elinor Glyn picture. He gave such a convincing portrayal as the lover that both Director Henley and Henry Raft, studio executive, thought him the ideal one to play the part of Wentworth.

SEEK TO ENFORCE STATE OLEO LAW

State Officials Appeal to Courts to Quash Injunction Against Statute

Madison (P) — State officials ought to remove the restrictions on enforcement of the new oleomargarine ban Tuesday when the law passed by the last legislature was intended to become effective.

J. Q. Emery, state dairy and food commissioner, will ask Circuit Judge August C. Hoppman to dismiss the temporary injunctions obtained by oleomargarine manufacturers and wholesale dealers to prevent enforcement of the law. The answer which Attorney General Ekern and C. A.
Erikson, deputy attorney general, will file with the court, demands that the complaint of the oleomargarine interests be dismissed and that the injunctions be vacated and set aside
"and for such other and further order or relief as to the court may appear just and equitable." It denies that the new law is prohibitory and declares it is valid.

The oleomargarine interests are seeking a permanent injunction restraining the state from enforcing the law. Regardless of the outcome of the test in its early stages, it is destined to go to the state supreme court and possibly the federal court for a final decision of its constitutionality, attorneys for both sides declared. Meanwhile, enforcement of the law is prevented.

FINISH INSTALLATION OF HUGE PIPE ORGAN

Work of installing the $25,000 organ at the new Methodist Episcopal church on N. Drew and E. Franklin streets has been completed, but it will take about a month to tune the huge instrument, as every one of the 2,500 pipes must be carefully tested, and tuned until it produces exactly the right tone. The organ was manufactured and installed by the Austin Organ Co. of Hartford, Conn. There are three distinct instruments in the entire organ, and these are the main organ, which is in the front part of the church auditorium and the solo and echo organs located in the rear of the church auditorium. The work of installation required about two months.

STATE OPPOSES CHANGE IN FREIGHT ON CHEESE

A. R. McDonald of Kaukauna, and member of the commission's staff will go to Chicago to oppose the proposed cancellation of commodity rates on cheese, which has been set for hearing before the interstate commerce commission Friday. Mr. Mc-Donald said the proposal would result in a freight rate increase of 33 per cent on about 55 per cent of the cheese shipped from Wisconsin, and Wisconsin produces about 75 per cent of the cheese made in the United States.

LABOR STANDS FOR HUMANITY, ROTARY HEARS

Bachman Explains Labor's Aspirations to Luncheon Club

Purposes and advantages of organized labor were explained by Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, and president of Appleton Trades Labor council, at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Northern, Tuesday noon. He said that the welfare of the community as a whole was dependent upon the welfare of the workingman, that when the workingman suffered, the merchant suffered with him.

"We are living in a new and wonderful age," Mr. Bachman said. "There has been a great development in the organization of our religious life, our fraternal life and our political life. Why, therefore, should there not be a development in the organization of labor?"

"We are living in an age of organization. The successful business is one that is well organized; in fact any enterprise must be well organized to be successful."

Organized labor has fostered some of the most humanitarian laws that were ever put on the statute books, Mr. Bachman declared. The workmen's compensation act, fought most bitterly by manufacturers of the state, has turned out to be of general satisfaction to the manufacturer as well as the laboring man, he said.

HELP FOR MOTHERS
"We favor a pension for mothers because we believe there is no institution in existence no matter how good or how well managed that can take the place of a child's own mother," he said.

"We favor Child Labor Laws because it takes from the mines and mills little children of immature age and places them in schools where the opportunity of a higher education and the resulting better things of life are made available."

"We favor minimum wage laws for women to protect not only their generation but future generations as well. We favor old age pensions because a man's labor is his life and when he has devoted the greater part of his life in building up the great industries of this country he is justly entitled to some compensation when unemployment overtakes him at old age."

"It is laws of this nature that have been sponsored by organized labor. The American Federation of Labor believes that, through thought, group action and group sociology are essential in this day and age. It wants to meet the employers of labor on a fair and honest basis."

DESERVE LIVING WAGE
"The great buying power of any community is the masses. Labor constitutes the greater percentage of the masses, and must receive at least a living wage if it manufactured products are to find a market."

"Prosperity is a community's possession and not a privileged possession. When labor cannot buy the merchant cannot sell, industry closes down and stagnation in business follows, which is bad for all classes of people."

"Consequently, by maintaining wages sufficiently high to protect the workingman, this is only in effect a reasonable demand on the part of organized labor to protect society in general."

"The American Federation of Labor is founded on a substantially sound basis. It has within its ranks men and women of all creeds, colors and nationalities, organized for their own economic betterment. It is organizing the masses and women of today for what it believes is their own common interests."

"It believes the employer has his right. He has the right of ownership, management and of a fair return on his investment. Labor concedes these rights."

William J. Eggert and John Lapen, representing the Appleton Trades and Labor council, were guests of the club as were Mayor John Goodland, Jr., W. W. Smith, Jr. of Antigo, Arthur C. Hansen of New York City, Paul Hunter of Madison, E. C. Arneemann of Neenah and Leo Schubert of Neenah.

The Misses Martha Lueckel, Leona Vogel and Lillian Schinners and Walter Lueckel of Appleton and the Rev. William Lueckel of Washington, D. C., motored to Waupaca and Wild Rose Sunday.

CAN'T USE FRUIT JARS TO MEASURE ENGINE OIL

Acting on instructions received from the state department of weights and measures, Joseph Hodgins, city sealer, Tuesday afternoon ordered owners and operators of gasoline filling stations to discontinue using fruit jars to measure engine oil which they sell to their patrons. Mr. Hodgins found about half of the stations were using ordinary fruit jars for dispensing oil while the others are using standard measures.

"Fruit jars are not accurate measuring instruments and the dealer and consumer do not know if they are getting full measure," Mr. Hodgins said. "The state department requires that only standard measuring containers be used."

ENROLL ON FRIDAY AT JUNIOR H. S.

All Pupils Assigned to Roosevelt School Are Notified to Register on That Day

All pupils who are to attend Roosevelt Junior high school, which is the east side building, are to register Friday of this week according to announcement of A. G. Oosterhaus, principal. A schedule has been fixed so only one grade at a time will be on hand and the work can be disposed of quickly. Several teachers will assist Mr. Oosterhaus.

Ninth grade pupils will be the first to present themselves. They are to register at 9 o'clock Friday morning and are instructed to go to the auditorium entrance. Eighth grade pupils are to be on hand at 1:30 Friday afternoon to enroll and seventh graders at 3 o'clock. These also are to use the auditorium entrance.

In this way the registration will be accomplished in one day, leaving the principal and teachers free to complete other preparations and have classes under way promptly at the opening on Tuesday morning of next week.

All of the seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils living in the First ward and practically all of those in the second and sixth are to be assigned to the Roosevelt school. The boundary line at the west of the district is S. Onondaga-st. from Fox river to W. College-ave; N. Division-st. from W. College-ave to W. Wisconsin-ave; and N. Richmond-st. from W. Wisconsin-ave to north city limits. Any pupils living north of the river and east of this line belong to Roosevelt school. The center of these streets is the dividing line.

Outagamie-co Cheese Men Win State Fair Prizes

Milwaukee—(P)—Threat of an occasional shower kept the early crowd at the Wisconsin state fair to somewhat lower levels than last year, according to early reports Wednesday. Tuesday the attendance was not as large as for the same day last year, 26,523 visitors turning the stiles, as against 27,052, a year ago.

Wednesday is Governor's day, and Governor J. J. Blaine broke in on the grand circuit races to address the crowds for a few moments from the grand stand. Two important races were scheduled for Wednesday, the 2:10 pace for $10,000 stake, and the 2:20 trot for Wisconsin horses.

In Tuesday's races Todd Hart won the 2:10 trot in straight heats, best time 2:04 1/4. He had a 2-second time allowance.

Miss Abbie won the 2:14 pace for $1,500, a seven-eighths of a mile event, best time 1:46 1/4. Guy Trogan won the 2:17 pace for $1,000; best time 2:07 1/4, and Beekie Beal won the 2:15 pace for $800 in straight heats, best time 2:06 1/4.

Dairy awards announced Wednesday are as follows: Creamery butter—W. L. Karker, Brillion; dairy butter—first, Mrs. W. D. Williams, Waukegan; aged American cheese—first, O. H. Yordi, Manawa; cheddar

STORE ROBBER SEEKS PARDON

Lonsdorf Asked for Information on Man Who Robbed Tea Company Store

Robert W. Richards, who is serving a five years term in the state prison at Waupun for robbing the W. College-ave, store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. in April, 1923, has applied to Governor John J. Blaine for a pardon, according to a letter received by John Lonsdorf, district attorney, from the governor's office in Madison. The letter asked Mr. Lonsdorf to inform the governor what he knew about the Richards case, and state whether he thought a pardon should be granted.

There was only one clerk in the Atlantic and Pacific store at the time the robbery was committed. Richards kept this clerk at bay with his gun, while he went through the cash register. However, he didn't get very far with his loot, as he was caught before he got out of town. When brought up for trial in municipal court Richards said he was out of work and hungry, and robbed the store to get money to buy food. The late Judge A. M. Spencer sentenced him to five years at Waupun on May 1, 1923.

The Rev. Walker Vance of Covington, Ky., who visited with Mrs. E. Fughe, 920 E. North-st. for the last month, left Tuesday for his home. The Rev. Mr. Vance married Miss Ruth Harper, formerly of this city, a daughter of Mrs. Fughe.

CHILDREN GET TASTE OF DAY IN SCHOOL

Children of the primary grades of St. Joseph school had their desire for the "feeling of the first day of school" fulfilled Wednesday when the school opened for a day to give the teachers an opportunity to give the children their report cards and grades of last year. Books were purchased and everything is in readiness for the official opening on Sept. 5 of the grades and the junior high school of St. Joseph school. More than 800 pupils are expected to enroll in the grade school and about 75 probably will enter the junior high school.

All the public and parochial schools will open next Tuesday.

Begin Filling Silos

Many farmers of Outagamie-co are already filling their silos, according to R. R. Amundson, county agricultural agent, who spent Tuesday among the farms of the county. Farmers around Stephentown are cutting ripe corn and soon all will be filling their silos, Mr. Amundson said.

PRINCIPALS PREPARE SCHOOL REGULATIONS

Rules and regulations for teachers, engineers and janitors for the three year high schools for the coming year were prepared at a meeting of principals of high schools Tuesday at the office of Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools. The rules will be submitted to the school board for consideration in the near future. Those attending the meeting were Mr. Rohan, A. G. Oosterhaus, principal of Roosevelt school; M. H. Small, principal of Wilson school; F. E. Younker, principal of McKinley school; H. H. Helbe, principal of Appleton high school.

Frank Zahrt of the Fox River Hardware Co. spent Wednesday in Milwaukee on business.

Lemons Tighten Wrinkled Skin

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have the very mildest anti-wrinkle lotion to tighten relaxed skin, erase fine lines and eradicate crows-feet.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the skin at night. By morning most of the tell-tale wrinkles, tired lines and crows-feet are smoothed out giving a more youthful contour to cheeks, chin, throat. It leaves the skin velvety soft, clear and fresh. Beauty experts use this astringent lotion for enlarged pores, also to bleach and whiten sallow, tanned skin. Mix this harmless lotion yourself since it acts best immediately after prepared.

GRUNDEMAN IS COACH OF BADGER RIFLEMAN

Captain E. F. Grundeman, commanding officer of Company D, 121st Infantry, left Monday for Camp Perry, Ohio, where he is to coach the Wisconsin national guard rifle team in the rifle match for national guard teams from all over the country. The match started Sept. 1 and will continue until Sept. 21. The Wisconsin squad is composed of 12 of the best guard marksmen in the state.

$185,000 WORTH OF BUILDING IS BEGUN IN AUGUST

New Construction Authorized
Since Start of Year Aggregates $1,393,000

Permits for the construction of buildings valued at $185,000 were issued in August by George Peotter, building inspector. Of the 71 building permits issued, 17 were for residences valued at $52,100, 24 were for garages at a cost of $5,335, and 30 were for miscellaneous projects costing $97,415.

August permits carried cost estimates about $33,000 greater than in July. Permits during that month were issued for 13 residences at $62,800, 23 garages at $5,710, and 30 miscellaneous projects at $66,192, for a total valuation of $132,702.

Since the beginning of the year the valuation permits authorized buildings constructions estimated at $1,393,445.50. June was by far the heaviest month thus far, the cost of buildings started in that month amounting $418,931. Records of the other months are: January, $14,500; February, $25,560; March, $101,356.50; April, $307,404; May, $147,115.

Estimated cost of projects in 1924 were greater in March than in June, as is the case for the present year. Permits issued for building projects in March, 1924, amounted to $533,625, and in June, 1924, $153,420. Much less building was done during August 1924, than during the past month. The records of the building inspector show that the cost of buildings for which building permits were issued in August of last year totaled only $66,870, $118,980 less than this year. Only eight residences, 19 garages and 21 miscellaneous projects were started that month.

That Appleton people are desirous of owning their own homes is indicated by the fact that construction of 132 residences has been authorized this year. Thirty residences were started in April, 26 in May and 23 in June.

RAINBOW VETS SEEK MONEY FOR COTTAGE

A cottage at Lake Winnebago for Appleton Rainbow division veterans will be built in the near future if present plans are carried out it was announced after the monthly meeting of Rainbow veterans at the armory Monday evening. A committee was appointed to work out a plan to raise money for the building of the cottage. An option has been secured on two lots near Brighton beach, and they probably will be purchased in the next few days, it was said Tuesday.

No definite plans for a cottage have been adopted but the building probably will be a large one room structure with a big screen porch, it was said. The cottage will be used for meetings and social gatherings of Rainbow veterans.

KEICHER WILL ATTEND SCOUTING CONFERENCE

P. O. Keicher, executive of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, will attend the regional conference of scout executives at Chicago, Sept. 9, 10 and 11. Every official in this position is required to attend in order to inform himself concerning the scouting developments in his territory.

Executives from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan will be at the Chicago meeting. Organization problems will be taken up and the enlargement of scout work also will be discussed.

Mr. Keicher hopes to be able to go to Eau Claire Sept. 11 to attend the state convention of the Reserve Officers association in session on that day and Sept. 12. He is president of Fox River Valley chapter of the association.

AUTOISTS SMILE AS "GAS" DROPS

Filling Stations Here Cut Price
Two Cents Because of Gasoline War

The broad smile which motorists assumed last week with the announcement by oil companies of a cut of 2 cents in the price of gasoline became more expansive Tuesday when the Standard Oil Company of Indiana came out with another cut of one cent. Smaller oil companies immediately followed suit.

Low test gas now sells for 23.6 cents and high test sells for 23.6, including the state tax of two cents per gallon. The price for both grades is 2 cents lower for tank wagon delivery.

Reduction on the price took effect at all local filling stations Tuesday with the exception of one, and that concern made its last Wednesday morning.

The drastic price cuts are the result of the war between the established refiners of oil and the so-called bootleggers of gasoline. The official announcement made by the Standard Oil Company read "due to competitive conditions," as the reason for the reduction.

Among the reasons given for the reductions is a statement made by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey that since Jan. 1 more than 7,000,000 barrels of gasoline have been shipped from California to eastern markets via the Panama canal. Present receipts from California are close to 2,000,000 barrels a month, the statement adds. The company says that back of the declining prices is the failing to reduce stocks this year in the height of the gasoline season.

MEET SEPT. 8 TO FIX DATE FOR SAENGERFEST

The date of the first Saengerfest to be held in Appleton this fall will be set and plans for the affair will be made at a meeting of the program committee of Appleton Maennerchor on Sept. 8. Several other important program matters for the year also will be taken up.

Buckles Of Every Shape And Size On Fall Footwear

Buckles and more buckles of all shapes and sizes have been decreed by Dame Fashion as the chief ornament for Milady's autumn footwear. Short skirts continue to be the rage and attractively clad feet play an important part in the ensemble of every well dressed woman.

Pumps have been chosen by foot-wear style authorities as one of the leading styles for evening and street wear. Styles of pumps range from a pattern of black satin with the new Spanish "spike" heel and a buckle set with many brilliants to the little untrimmed pump of black satin with very plain Cuban heel, which is worn very nicely by those who can not become accustomed to the high heel. Patent leather and kid will also play an important part in materials used for footwear this fall. Velvet pumps and slippers probably will become more popular toward the middle of the winter, but now satin, kid and patent leather are used to make up an item of apparel that is most important to woman's costume.

LONG AND NARROW

The shape of pumps, and all foot-wear in general, have the tendency to become narrower and longer than the short stubby toed pumps and slippers that were worn so much this summer. A very pretty style of foot-wear for autumn is the D'Orsay pattern, which is a pump with high or low heel according to the taste of the buyer. A black satin pump featuring the new Spanish "spike" heel and narrow round toe is shown with cut steel beading or silver embroidery on the vamp.

Slippers with narrow instep straps are shown in a variety of styles. Silver heels and trimming on black satin slippers for evening are just the thing to complete the plain evening costume of the smart woman or young miss. High cut pumps are adopted to those who must have something over the instep.

BLACK SETS PACE

Black sets the pace for fall in color for women's footwear. A new color called Autumn brown is used to make a pair of slippers that ought to be included in every woman's wardrobe. Varied shades of brown and tan probably will be worn extensively and combinations of black and grey and black and some other combination color will be used for foot-wear this fall. The three eyelet oxford will be worn by the more mature woman. It is predicted, and it is expected that the young miss will favor the pump and strap slipper.

Combinations of tans and browns and patent leather and bright colors will no doubt take the lead in shoes for the ladies. Slippers and shoes for the little boy and girl continue to have broad toes and springy heels and dealers say that combinations of colors probably will feature most in choosing footwear for the youngster. Autumn blonde, maplewood rose

RAILROAD EMPLOYES FORM ORGANIZATION

Organization of a cooperative committee to bring about greater efficiency in yard and shop operation for the mutual benefit of employers and employees alike, was effected last week by the North Western railroad round house and shop forces at Green Bay following a visit of Chicago officials. The first meeting was held Wednesday evening, and after the next meeting, which will be held the first Wednesday in October, all gatherings will be held the first Wednesday of each month.

A. E. Wurl, district master car builder of Kaukauna, was one of the officials present at the meeting.

SHAKESPEARE CALLED GUGLIELMO IN ITALY

Rome—(AP)—William Shakespeare is William Shakespeare in nearly every country of the world, no matter what its language, but in Italy he is Guglielmo Shakespeare, just as George Washington is Giorgio Washington. This is because of the growing nationalistic feeling among Italians which makes translation of all foreign proper names into Italian a corollary of patriotism. No nation or language is excepted.

All names of historical personalities, living dignitaries, titles of books and famous phrases, mottoes and axioms of all sorts are Italianized. In this connection the Italian newspapers have had a distressing time with the recent American presidents, names like Woodrow and Warren having no near relatives in Italy. They have repaired the damage to some extent, however, by frequent misspellings.

MUSICIANS COMPLAIN RADIO HURTS BUSINESS

Berlin—(AP)—Radio broadcasting in Germany is ruining their business, is the constant complaint of concert managers, music teachers and the sellers of musical instruments. Since people now get their music at home, they are not inclined to go out for it, or study for it.
The public attendance at concerts and grand opera is falling off; music teachers who a year ago had five or six pupils a day now have but two or three a week, and people are no longer interested in learning to make music for themselves.

Business Men Now Have A Complete Office Supply Service at Sylvester & Nielsen's New Store

It's not just a coincidence that the most successful businesses are those whose offices have the most modern equipment. Modern office equipment is designed and made to eliminate all unnecessary work. The office equipment of thirty and forty years ago complicated all work; modern equipment simplifies it.

This store was founded several years ago with the idea in mind of helping the business man do away with office equipment that only hinders, and use supplies that help a great deal instead. We have made a study of the needs of modern offices. We know just what equipment will help you, and what won't.

Now that we have our new store filled with a large and varied stock of fine office supplies we are especially fitted to help Appleton business men solve and simplify their office problems. All you have to do is phone us and tell us what you want—we'll do the rest. And it might be a good idea for you to drop in and see just what a thoroughly modern office supply store is like. Then you'll know just what we can do for you—and we can do a lot.

Consider The Service Your Office Supplies Should Give--Then Consult Us

When you buy a desk or a safe or some filing equipment you don't buy it to use for just a short time. You don't expect it to go out of style next year. You don't expect to use it all in a year's time. You buy it as a permanent investment—something that will last for years. You will find that everything to be had here—and that's a great deal—has been made to give you and your business the maximum amount of service at a minimum cost in the long run. One purchase will prove this to you. You're sure to come back again. The following are just a few of the many things that you're likely to need sooner or later:

Steel and Wood Office Furniture, Desks, Chairs, Tables and Safes, Art-Metal Filing Equipment, Steel Shelving, I-P Loose

Leaf Ledgers, Books, and Forms, Office Paper, Typewriter Paper, Carbon Paper and Typewriter

Darby—Funeral services for Bartell J. Graff, business man of this village who died Saturday morning, were held at Holy Angels church Tuesday morning with requiem mass read by the Rev. John W. Husslein. The church was crowded with mourners.
Twenty-one members of Leo Van Roy post of the American legion acted as escort to the body and conducted the military burial. The United States flag was carried by Joseph Van Groll, the American legion banner by Michael Van Groll, and the color guards were John Berghuis and Matthew Sprangers.
Commander Henry A. Stumpf led the firing squad composed of Joseph A. Stumpf, John Luniak, Herman Van Vorst, Christian Gerg, Joseph Palm, Harry A. Stumpf, Sylvester M. Mechl, John Hartzheim. The bugler was Alexander M. Schmalz and the guard of honor, Roman Fees. The American legion bearers were Hugo Wittmann, Fred Probst, Joseph Koleske, John Rehm, John Ashauer and Alois Thiel.
The body was conveyed by auto mobile to Sheboygan where it was interred in the Graff family lot in St. Peter Claver cemetery on the south side. The military rifle salute was given and taps was sounded over the grave.

Among those from out of town and Mrs. Casper Brotz were. Mr. and Mrs. Susper Brotz and family, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. George Brotz, Jacob Klein and John Nelson. Sheboygan: Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mannbach and daughter Mary and Michael Mannbach, Jr., Chicago; Sister Mary Rose, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Molter, Sheboygan; James DeVoy and daughter Marcella, Fond du Lac; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graff and son Joseph, Fond du Lac; Mr. and Mrs. John Graff and children Sylvia and John Joseph, Glenbeulah; Jerome Graff, Junction City.

The decedent was born at Sheboygan July 31, 1888 and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Graff. He spent his early days there and received his education at St. Peter Claver school and also took a business course at Sheboygan business college. On Nov. 14, 1919 he married Miss Christine Brotz at Sheboygan. The couple then located on a farm at Milladore and lived there until May, 1921 when they came to this place and purchased the general store of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Ashauer.
During World war Mr. Graff served as a sergeant in Company B 21st ammunition train of the Blackhawk Division with the American Expeditionary Forces in England and France.

REAL STEAMER IN MOVIE BLAST

Corvallis, Owned by U. S. Shipping Board Destroyed in "Half Way Girl" Scene

New York—The great expense, the time, energy and danger involved, besides other more or less incalculable obstacles, in filming many of the spectacular scenes for pretentious movies have led more and more to the use of the miniature.

Many such scenes like train and ship wrecks and similar disasters embodied in the screen story, are done with ingeniously contrived toys and marvels of animation on a tiny scale.

Some of them, showing enormous upon the screen, are filmed within the compass of a few square yards in the studio.

This practice has become so common and so passably illusive that it was by way of completely superseding actual spectacle on the grand scale.

HELIGOLAND IS STRIPPED CLEAN OF ARMAMENT

Once Powerful Fortress Now Is Puny Island Off German Coast

Heligoland—Inhabitants of this little wind-swept island which has been converted from the status of a fortress and submarine base to that of a peaceful district of fisher folk, who follow a summer season of summer visitors as a side line, have been wondering of late how the great change which has taken place here is going to affect their business. The outer entrance to the harbor has been completely blocked, as part of the scheme of disarmament, and rendered useless for all but fishing smacks and small pleasure boats bringing tourists from the continent.

The work of demolition, carried out under the peace terms by the Inter-Allied Commission of Control, is said to be the largest task of this kind ever attempted, and with the blocking of the harbor entrance, against warships of all kinds has been brought to a conclusion. While this work was in progress great numbers of visitors arrived from spring until fall to witness the different phases of transmission, but with the blasting away of the fortifications at an end, the great guns taken down and melted into peaceful implements, the inhabitants feel that the public generally will lose interest in this one-time island arsenal which the German government had planned to convert into a great naval base.

JUDGE RELEASES MEN WHO HIT PEDESTRIAN

Zurich—(AP)—In the opinion of a Zurich justice of the peace "motor car drivers must necessarily halt when they approach women, children or the aged, for nobody can tell which way they will run, but there isn't any reason to suspect that two men standing in the middle of the road would run in opposite directions when a driver sounds his horn." With this reasoning the judge declined to fine a driver for running down a male pedestrian.

The evidence showed that two men standing in the road paid no attention when the driver sounded his horn, but when the car tried to pass them they ran in opposite directions and the driver explained it was impossible to avoid both of them.

I could not help smiling, Leslie, when I saw the polite way that Paula squelched that woman who asked about men falling in love with their stenographers.

I remember very distinctly a few years ago of a man telling me that no business man of any acumen whatever, paid any great social attention to his own secretary.

"In the first place," he said, "if a man has a good secretary, he knows that if he pays her social attention, and she accepts them he spoils her entirely as a business employee. He also knows that if she doesn't accept his attentions it always makes a coolness between them."

"Therefore," he said with a smile, "if a man must flirt with a stenographer or secretary, he should fall for his friend's secretary instead of his own."

This blasé bit of philosophy has always stayed with me, Leslie, and to tell you the truth, it has always been a great comfort to me as a wife, particularly when I first came to Hollywood and saw all the pretty girls in Dick's studio fawning upon him because he was the producing manager.

When I told this story to Dick one evening he said, "My dear, it is perfectly true. A successful man in business hours thinks of nothing except his business."

"Not even his wife, Dick?"

"Not even his wife," was his uncompromising answer.

Of course I knew that the woman who asked Paula if men were apt to fall in love with their stenographers did this because she wanted gaffer in the east and had been circulated around the moving picture colony, that Paula had been a stenographer in the east and had been paid a nice round sum to come out here when her employer was tired of her was a fact.

I was awfully glad to hear her say perfectly innocently, "I've never been a stenographer."

Then she continued: "Although I do not know anything about it personally, I don't think men fall in love with the women in their offices very often. Men may have a passing fancy or a curiosity they may see every day, that is of course only sex instinct, but in the press and annoyance of work-day life it usually amounts to nothing."

"The attraction of a man for any girl on the screen or stage is a subtle flattery to his vanity. To be seen with her, to have it known that she is his girl, makes him proud of his conquest. The people in front of the screen look upon women who act for it as different from other women. The camera sheds a mysterious romance over the actor. Everyone wants to know if Pola Negri or Mary Pickford and the rest of us are the same in private life as they are on the screen."

Health Hints

HEART WEAK? BE CAREFUL. Common ailments of middle age are heart disease, kidney disease, and hardening of the arteries.

Of these heart disease takes the greater toll of life. In fact, more deaths are caused from heart disease than any other single disease in this country.

Yet if a person has heart disease it is not an indication of sudden death. Heart disease does not mean immediate fatality.

If a person is fully aware of the condition of his heart, and the limitations this condition prescribes, he may live to a ripe old age providing judgment is used in his every-day activities.

Vigorous physical exercise and nervous shocks should be avoided. Sometimes it is difficult to avoid nervous shocks. They occur frequently in every-day life, and a person suffering from heart trouble may be affected by misfortune that happens to a friend or acquaintance.

But one's physical exertions can be controlled, and must be controlled if the weak heart patient expects to live his allotted time.

NEW FAD

Bees have been removed from bonnets and put on scarfs, and photographs have been snatched from the family albums and are placed on shins. This is indeed a topsy-turvy world we live in. What the well-dressed woman will wear next is becoming a matter too puzzling for conjecture.

Irene Bordoni, actress, originator of these startling innovations, photographed as she arrived from Paris, explained that the current Parisian fad is for a woman to wear a photograph of herself on one stocking and that of her husband or sweetheart on the other.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Story of the Chinese Fisherman

"What kind of a story would you like to hear next?" asked Mr. O' Mi, the Story Teller.

"Tell us about more fairies," said Nancy.

"All right," said Mr. O' Mi, "but the story I was thinking about has fairies in it whom no one can see and no one suspect, of being around. Fairies who play us tricks or fairies who do us good. See if you can guess what kind of fairies I mean when I have finished my story."

The Twins sat very still and Mr. O' Mi began:

"Once upon a time there was a poor fisherman. He was a Chinese fisherman and very poor. He didn't fish just to sell to the market and so have enough money for his other wants, but he desired to get enough food to keep him and his family alive. Summer and winter they lived on fish, and once in awhile a little rice, which the fisherman got at the market when he had had an extra good day and could trade the herring he did not need."

"The Chinaman put on a coat made of straw to keep the rain off, then he would wade out into the sea and stand silently for hours. He was too poor to ever afford a boat."

"Many boats passed him—all sorts of boats but most of them filled with oyster shells."

"The poor fisherman knew that there were treasures in these boats, for the oysters they were filled with were not ordinary oysters. They were pearl oysters."

"Beyond the place where the fisherman stood every day was a place where men but on diver's suits and buckets into deep water and brought up divers of oyster shells. These were taken to shore, opened and examined carefully for the precious jewels."

"You know, my dears," said Mr. O' Mi, "that that is where those gems are found. Oyster shells at the bottom of the sea."

"Well, the poor fisherman got to floundering as the pearl boats passed him."

"What is this boat worth?" he would guess. "Perhaps a hundred yen—or perhaps a million yen. Who knows? At any rate, it must be a great fortune."

"Then he took to floundering how large the pearls might be. 'Perhaps in yonder boat is a pearl as large as a pigeon's egg,' he would say. 'It may be lost in the middle of the Emperor's crown.'"

"No one noticed the poor fisherman in his funny straw hat like a sharp mushroom, or his funny straw coat like a bundle of hay baled for market."

"So he fished on for his herring and dreamed thoughts of pearls. And then one day the poor Chinaman had an adventure."

"What was it?" asked the Twins excitedly. "Did a boat run into him?"

Mr. O' Mi shook his head. "No, that's the queer part of it," he said. "After spending almost all of his waking hours in the water, the poor fisherman had an adventure on the land. It happened one day when he had caught four extra herring and was taking them to market to exchange for a bowlful of rice grains. The Chinaman passed a jeweler's stall on his way. Now he had passed this jeweler's stall many times without stopping. But today a sudden thought popped into his head and he stood still."

THE FRONT IN THE BACK

This collar makes a brave attempt at being different. In the first place it hugs the neck very closely, and in the second place it is worn reverse fashion with what would ordinarily have been the front in the back. Many smart women are following this extreme style.

For long tunics and the blouses of ensemble costumes.

SANDWICHES IN PICNIC BASKET ARE "FLAGGED"

"Flag the sandwiches!" There will be no danger of your guests choosing the wrong sandwich filling at the next picnic, lap lunch, or children's party if each basket of sandwiches is "topped" with a small paper flag bearing the name of the filling. Home economics experts at the University of Wisconsin recommend the use of such a plan.

To make each "sandwich flag," cut out an oblong piece of plain white paper about two or three inches. Apply paste to one end of the paper and fold it over a toothpick to make a standard. Print or write the name of one of the fillings on it, and stick in the top sandwich filling correspondingly. A tag may be made and used in the same manner with the exception that it is tied to the basket handle.

"Flagged sandwiches" are most attractive when served from a flat reed or fiber basket.

Household Hints

REMOVES STAINS
Obstinate stains can be removed by soaking in a weak solution of chloride of lime.

WASH MESH BAGS.
Wash a mesh bag in soapuds containing ammonia. Dry by shaking in jeweler's sawdust.

MEASURE MOLASSES
To measure molasses quickly, dip the measuring cup or spoon in scalding water first.

TWICE LAID
Two cups cold potatoes, 1 cup cold cooked fish, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons butter.

Mash potatoes coarsely with a fork. Remove skin and bones from fish. Combine potatoes and fish and add seasonings. Melt butter in frying pan. When hot add potato mixture. Pack with a large spoon, cover and put over a low fire. When hot through remove cover and brown on underside. Fold like an omelet and serve at once.

BEAUTIFUL AT FORTY-FOUR? A USUAL THING

BY CYNTHIA GREY

"I am not afraid to die, I am still beautiful."

These are said to have been the last words of Pauline Bonaparte, younger sister of Napoleon Bonaparte, who died at the age of 44.

In her day it was something of a distinction to be beautiful at 44, because most women had faded by that time.

Today we find many beautiful women at 44, and strange as it may seem they are not necessarily society women or actresses, but they are just as frequently business women who go forth every day and earn their living in competition with men.

"The best of my trade is composed of business women," a well-known beauty specialist told me. "They are regular and systematic in their care of their complexions, and their figures. They do not neglect themselves any more than they do their business, because they know so much depends on it."

"Most of my patrons are over 40," she went on. "Few of them look it. They don't dare to look middle-aged. It's much a part of their jobs to look younger as it is to be efficient."

BEAUTIFUL AT FORTY-FOUR? A USUAL THING

"I am not afraid to die, I am still beautiful."

These are said to have been the last words of Pauline Bonaparte, younger sister of Napoleon Bonaparte, who died at the age of 44.

In her day it was something of a distinction to be beautiful at 44, because most women had faded by that time.

Today we find many beautiful women at 44, and strange as it may seem they are not necessarily society women or actresses, but they are just as frequently business women who go forth every day and earn their living in competition with men.

"Most of my patrons are over 40," she went on. "Few of them look it. They don't dare to look middle-aged. It's much a part of their jobs to look younger as it is to be efficient."

I think she is right. No woman can afford to look old unless she is thoroughly established. If she has to make her living she must be young and fit. Age is a privilege that has passed out of the hands of the working women.

Some day I believe we will learn how to live more sanely, the care of our bodies and our minds. Years will cease to be important. We won't mind telling our ages because age will have lost its sting.

"We are learning much about food and its effect on the body. We know that the complexion, for instance, is a matter that is regulated by diet and by our nerves. We know that superfluous flesh is not a necessary evil but the result of uncleanly eating. We know that we keep our bodies active by exercising them. We know that inactivity and idleness are the two thieves that steal away youth and loveliness, the calendar."

We are also learning about our minds, thanks to psychologists and psychoanalysts who are revealing our complexes and repressions. We know that we may keep our thoughts to ourselves so far as speech is concerned but will betray their presence in our acts and our deeds. Some day we will learn to be as careful about what we put in our minds as we are what we put in our stomachs because we will know the results of unhealthy thoughts.

When that day arrives, the beauty doctors can all shut up shop and go home, for when we know how to treat our bodies and our minds and eat and drink and live so sanely, we will know all there is to know about beauty and keeping young.

WAS A MERE SHADOW
"When I first started with the Compound I was a mere shadow. My health seemed to be gone. The last doctor I had said he would give me no more treatments. That was when I gave the doctors up. Now I am a healthy robust woman. I wish I could tell the world what a wonderful medicine Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound is."—Mrs. J. A. Jones, 317 Colley Ave., Norfolk, Va.

NERVOUS, SICKLY, AND PAIN IN SIDES
"I was nervous—had inflammation, pains in sides and sickly after my last baby was born. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and made me well. It is the best medicine for sick women in the world. It surely did put me on my feet again!"—Mrs. James Miles, 419 Cherry Street, Dover, Ohio.

NOW WELL AND STRONG
"I cannot begin to tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. Before taking it I couldn't stand on my feet without pains running all through my whole body from my waist down just like threads pulling. I was not fit to do any work. Now I am well and strong."—Mrs. Rush, Fullerton, 525 South 2nd Street, Clearfield, Pa.

The FLAPPER WIFE

By Beatrice Burton

She sat silent, looking at Dick with her great brown eyes fixed and staring. Then she began to cry. Tears always distressed Dick horribly, she knew.

He got up and came around the table to her. He drew her up from her chair, and out of the room. He led her to the davenport in the living room and pushed her down into its velvety depths.

"Poor little thing," he said, "are you afraid to tell me what you did with the money? You spent it, didn't you?"

Gloria nodded, sobbing against Dick's breast. "There, there, don't cry," he said. "It doesn't matter, honey. I wouldn't have mentioned it to you, only we're dead-broke. I'd have given it to you for hats and things, if I weren't right down to rock bottom!"

Gloria wiped her eyes, and looked up at him. "Then where are you going to get the money to go away on your trip?" she asked. "I should think you'd go right back to work tomorrow, if you're down to your last dollar! Instead of planning an expensive trip!"

Dick frowned despairingly as he dropped into his armchair. "That's what I'd like to do," he said, "get back to work," he said, "but Doc Seymour won't let me go back into the office until I've put on ten pounds. He says I'll go all to pieces if I do."

He cleared his throat and went on with difficulty. "I'm going to mortgage the house," he said. "You see, I've just got to get some money to tide us over 'til I start earning again. Gosh, I hate to put a plaster on it, too, but I guess it can't be helped. We've had a pretty tough run of luck, lately, you and I. . . haven't we, sweetheart?"

Gloria nodded. She patted the bandage across her aching shoulder. "I should say we have," she answered. "By the way, what's become of Wayburn?" Dick asked. "I still have that cigar case of his. I ought to give it to him."

"You can't," Gloria answered. "He's left town." The moment she had said it she could have bitten off her tongue for her stupidity. "Humm," Dick mused, that's so. "A letter came for you from New York today. I told Ranahild to put it on your dresser. Did you get it?"

"Yes," Gloria faltered. "I did." "Who writes you letters from New York?" Dick asked.

Gloria could feel Wayburn's letter inside her blouse, where she had slipped it. It crackled against her flesh with every breath she drew.

There really was nothing inside the letter that she couldn't show Dick, she was sure. It was as harmless a letter as ever had been written.

There was not a single word in it to suggest that it had been penned by a lover to the lady of his dreams. Gloria pulled it from the top of her dress and handed it to Dick.

"Here, read it yourself," she said. "It's from Stan Wayburn."

But Dick didn't read it. He didn't open it. He hardly touched it. He just long enough to toss it down on the tank-wood table at the end of the davenport.

His face was white under the light of the tall lamp that stood there. "So?" he questioned. "My wife carries Wayburn's letter against her heart?"

Gloria laughed. "Dick, you're absurd," she said. "I never thought of it's being against my heart. I stuck it into my blouse, so Ranahild wouldn't find it and read it."

"I see," Dick said. But his face was grim. He sat down in his armchair, and filled his pipe. He picked up the book he was reading. Then he laid it down upon his knees. "Gloria," he said abruptly. "Tell me the truth for once in your life. Are you or are you not in love with Wayburn?"

"I don't know," Gloria answered. She had asked herself that question a thousand times. And she never answered it the same way twice. "That's nonsense," Dick went on impatiently. "You must know how you feel about him! . . . Tell me!"

this: you don't care about me, any more, do you?"

Gloria looked across the room at him with the calm eyes of the Sphinx, herself. But his question had set thoughts to buzzing like bees in her head.

How much did she care about Dick?

Would she miss him if he went away from her as she missed Stanley Wayburn?

She wondered. She felt Dick as something trustworthy, honest and good beyond measure. Good all the way through. That was Dick.

But did she love him? "I don't know, Dick," Gloria said at last.

She sat up straight, pulling herself together like a woman who had something to say and meant to say it now.

"I'll try to tell you how I feel about you, if I can, Dick," she said. "To begin with, I hate housework. I hate having to run this house for you. It makes me sick and tired. And sometimes I almost hate you for marrying me and turning me into a housewife!"

Dick gave a short laugh. "Bah," he said. "You a housewife! That's pretty good, Gloria. You haven't done a day's housework in your whole life! How do you know whether you hate it or not?"

Gloria waved his words aside. "Now don't interrupt me!" she snapped at him. "When I married you, I was awfully tired of office work. I was tired of playing around with fellows who didn't want to get married. . . . And you looked awfully good to me. See?"

Dick nodded. "I see perfectly," he said. "You wanted to marry Wayburn, but he didn't want to marry you. I came along and you thought I had a lot more to offer. So you married me. Isn't that it?"

Gloria shook her head so that every curl on it quivered. "No, no, that wasn't it," she said quickly. "I'm not such a gold digger as all that! But I knew you'd be awfully good to me if I married you. And you, Dick, don't you?"

Dick puffed his pipe in silence. He passed his hand across his forehead, cold and wet with sweat. "Was Wayburn ever in love with you?" he asked.

"I thought he was once," Gloria answered. "But I found out that he wasn't."

She got up and came across the room to Dick. She sat down on the arm of his chair and put her face down against his hair.

LEGION COPS DECIDING TILT FROM BANKS, 13-3

M'KENZIE SQUAD HANDS WINNERS GAME ON PLATTER

Bob Connelly Hurls Wicked Ball for Legion as Bank Boys Throw Ball Around Field

Errors, wild heaves of every type and description, and "dumb" base ball on the part of the Banker squad of the Twilight loop, handed the Legion crew, 1925 Lark loop champs, a decisive win in the deciding game of a three-game interloop series Tuesday evening at Jones park by 13-3 count. The Bankers played good ball in six frames, but blew up completely in the other two to allow five and six runs respectively. After the first blup in the opening frame, they fought desperately with the result that the score soon was only 5-3 against them, but then the big six-run blup, during which the ball was thrown hit and miss, mostly miss, to practically every part of Jones park, wrecked their chances completely. The win gave the Legion 14 victories and 1 loss for the season. The Lark loop champs are done unless the "C" crew conquers the Post-Crescents Wednesday afternoon in which case they probably will meet the Triangles in a series to decide the city title.

CONNELLY PITCHES WELL
The hurling of Engineer Bob Connelly, Lion star, who was used to take the place of Nick Carter who was out of town, featured the big tilt. Bob had the entire evening of his hand at all times, allowing only seven hits and fanning two. He also walked one. With a fast team behind him Bob looked like the class of the city in the hurling line. His teammates came through with some husky clouting to help him. 17 hits being registered off of Buboltz, including doubles by Smith and Frawley. A classy double play, Starnard to Horn, also helped some. Eddie picked off a hit labeled for extra sacks and the caught a runner off second. Connelly, uncorred one wild pitch which let in an enemy run and later on another tally.

SMITH STARS
Buboltz pitched steadily in the pinches but had terrible support when it was needed. McKenzie starred for the losers, getting three of their seven hits and playing bang-up ball at the bat. Eddie caught a runner off second. Smith was the hero of the entire fray. The Legion gardener hit safely four times in five-hits, scored twice, stole five bases and picked off four hard drives in the outfield. Sanders got three hits in four tries for the Legion, and the entire winning crew layed fine fielding games, in spite of five errors.

THE GAME
Both teams and Mansfield in the opener McKenzie and Starnard hitting to drive a Banker run and hit by Starnard, Smith, Frawley and Fries and an error on Horn's drive giving the Legion five. Stoenbauer got a hit in the fourth and after two were down Connelly got a triple wild walking Reuter and then shooting a wild pitch past Bayer to allow Stoenbauer to canter in and Reuter to take third. Sauer's hit brought Reuter over. After that frame the Bankers couldn't hit Bob hard enough to score although two hits were registered in the first of the ninth. However, with two down in that frame two on and Mansfield, a good hitter, up, Herb Voecks tried to plier home and was caught by three feet, Connelly to Bayer, ending the tilt. Five hits and three bad errors gave the Legion six scores in the fifth frame and the game was on. To make the victory more complete two hits in the seventh and

6-YEAR OLD BOY WANTS TO SWIM BIG CHANNEL

New York.—The English channel is the next objective of 6-year-old John Devine, South Philadelphia, who swam a mile and a quarter across the Hudson river Monday in 33 minutes. The world's adult record for the same distance is 23 minutes.

KROMER'S SQUAD SETS WORLD MARK FOR LOST GAMES

Blytheville Crew Headed by Former Kaukauna Man Drops 37 of Last 39 Tilts

Blytheville, Ark.—There is no joy in Blytheville; its ball club has lost out. As a consistent loser, the local club of the Tri-State league is believed to be unequalled in the annals of organized baseball. The club has lost the last thirty games played and has won only two of the thirty-nine games played during the second half of the season.

KROMER IS MANAGER
Stormy Kromer, king of the sand-lotters in Kaukauna, is managing the Blytheville club. Kromer had his own views about the national pastime and he experimented with them in Blytheville. Kromer figured he could take youngsters right off the sand lots and make them go into organized baseball. As yet no news has been received about Kromer's resignation. He is a demerol for punishment and will probably stick it out even if his team loses a hundred games in a row. When the season started there were a number of Badger youngsters with Kromer but, according to last accounts only one or two of the Wisconsin players were sticking to the baseball ship that has broken all records for going backwards.

FRED BUSHEY LINES UP FAST HORSES FOR FAIR

Waupaca.—Admirers of high class horse racing will be given a real treat again this year at the Weyauwega fair on Sept. 16, 17 and 18. Fred Bushey, superintendent of speed, is lining up some of the fastest pacers record of 2-11 1/2 was established last year, and prospects are that the record will again be lowered when the finest lot of speed marvels ever assembled in this section of the state face the starter on the closing day in the free-for-all pace and trot. The track will be in excellent condition, and with three days of real racing it is expected that record-breaking crowds will be in attendance.

LINEUPS

The lineups were:
Legion.—Starnard, 1ss; Connelly, p; Smith, 1b; Bayer, c; Frawley, 3b; Horn, 2b; Fries, 1b; Hartzell, rss; Kolb, cf; Sanders, ss.
Bankers.—Voecks, 1ss; McKenzie, 2b; Stoenbauer, 3b; Mansfield, rf; Reuter, 1b; Sauer, c; Potter, rf; Gerhartz, rss; Buboltz, p; Wissman, cf.

Batteries.—Connelly and Bayer; Buboltz and Sauer. Umpires.—George Packard and Ed Schneider.

Washington Takes First Game Of Crucial Series

HUSKY MITT STAR PICKED TO FIGHT YOUNG HENDRICKS

"Little John" Busch, Sheboygan Giant, to Meet Kaukauna Boy in Opener Sept. 24

With the signing of Johnnie Busch, the Sheboygan phenom, to meet Washie Hendricks in the opening bout of the initial card of the new Appleton Athletic club in Armory G on Sept. 24, the card for the evening has been completed. The promoters have had a tough time getting an opponent for the Kaukauna flash because of his height, but reports on Busch show that Washie will have a man his size to down. Busch, who is said to be one of the toughest scrappers in this part of the country, weighs 150-152 pounds and stands 5 feet 11 inches in his ring shoes. When he and Washie clash the fans are assured an opener that will compare with the other crack bouts on the card and plenty of fans from Sheboygan are expected to follow "Little John" to the ringside. The Electric city sporting contingent also is expected to make itself known at the ringside in whooping it up for Hendricks.

Johnny LaMotte, who hails from the ice-bound regions of Superior, has a tough and experienced boy in the second six-rounder in Battling Heil, the Oshkosh Bearcat. Heib, a real fighter, will be in fine fettle as a result of his victory over the home fins in the Sawdust City open air show on Labor day.

Milwaukee boys will settle an old grudge in the first ten-rounder when Joey Cien and Walter Grayjack, competitors since days of Noah's Ark, clash. Neither has won a real decisive victory over the other in any of their encounters, though the clashes usually brought out as much fight, speed and action and sometimes more, than the main bouts of the cards. The final bout of the evening should end 32 rounds of the speediest boxing seen here in some time, when Harry Kahn, Milwaukee glove expert, meets Red Blanchard star of the Windy city, and a leading midwest contender for the lightweight crown left vacant by the retirement of Benny Leonard. Altogether, the card should be the best the valley has seen in some time.

GOLF As Champions Play It

the "PITCH AND RUN SHOT"
In taking club back use forearm.
In down swing hit through with wrist.
Right hand climbs over left after impact giving ball over-spin.

How does one play the "pitch and run" shot successfully?

BY JOHNNY FARRELL
Cuban Open Champion, 1924
The pitch and run shot is one that is very useful to all types of golfers. It is played with your fore arm and your wrist. In taking the club back, eliminate your wrists and use your fore arm. Then in making the downward swing hit through firmly with your wrists. Your right hand should come into play as you are meeting the ball with the club head. This turns the face of the club over, your right hand climbing over the left after the impact. This is what gives the ball over spin and keeps it running on the line of play.

MATHYS AGAIN WILL PLAY WITH PACKERS

Green Bay.—Charlie Mathys, one of the most popular players on the Packers' line, has put his name on the dotted line and he will again perform with the Big Bay Blues this fall. Mathys is one of the "homers" on the Packers team. He is a graduate of Green Bay West high where he starred on the gridiron. Charlie went to Ripon college for a year and then entered Indiana where he played two years of conference football successfully. After graduating from college Charlie was with Hammond for one year and in 1922 came back to his old home town. He has been with the Packers ever since. The Bay quarterback is considered a splendid field general and he plays conservative football all the time. Mathys is an expert receiver of the forward pass and the Lambeau-Mathys combination has gained considerable territory for the Big Bay Blues.

JUST BEFORE THE GONG

Here are the principals, in the recent flyweight bout out on the coast, caught by the cameraman's "flash" just before the opening gong sounded. La Barba was given the decision after 10 rounds of milling. With it went the championship recently left without an owner by the death of Pancho Villa.

E. W. Loop Secretary Asks Fans To Boost Home Talent

In an article released for publication in the Post-Crescent Saturday, Secretary C. L. PreFontaine, Fond du Lac, the organizer and originator of the home talent baseball endeavor in the Fox river valley stated that the situation never looked so rosy as it does today for the success of his "pet" project and that his "dream" had come about as a reality. He said: "Looking back upon our efforts of the past season, we of the Eastern Wisconsin Baseball League, of which your city is a member feel a lot of pride in our achievement. We have reason to feel so, first because we have demonstrated that baseball can be played without a financial pain, and we have demonstrated that we can furnish a superior brand of ball over what has been attempted in the past years in this state. Your city was one of those who were made the suckers of a bunch of cast-off 'would bes' and 'never could possibly be' barred players, players with a reputation of no account, banding together for their mutual benefit, and to the detriment of the sport in this state. High salaries, big ownership management, and total disregard to sound business management, were the burdens afflicted upon the public one and all. I firmly believe that they were not all to blame, players were as guilty as the business man that did furnish the funds to carry on. Why should not an individual take advantage of the generosity of an over anxious bunch of citizens to donate to a worthless cause. In fact we all know the results, every year a staggering overhead with insufficient funds, the only answer 'Hit the bus' and these business men generously continued to contribute to fill that 'bushel basket' full of good American dollars, and all going to outside elements, who laughed at the wonderful achievement (?) they annually pulled.

CUTS EXPENSES
"The amount penalized each city was any where from $1,000 up to $10,000 annually, and the results killed sport. Commercialism and death to all the good intentions. "The brand of ball was not on par, it was below par with what is now being played in our circuit with the result that no players were developed that went into fast company, count them all on your hands, one finger will tally them all, but one man with any prominence, Mandy Brooks from Oshkosh. "This year our league is but two months old; we have all made money. Plymouth taking the lead with $2,000 so far; all towns show a clean sheet, and many with hundreds of dollars in their treasuries. All because we cut the high salaries, we cut the overhead expenses, we cut out that foolish idea of paying a visiting team $200.00 or more guarantee per game. People said we could not operate without it, because none had the nerve to adopt strictly business principles. We needed a complete 'revolution' in the administration of the game, and it was done. We made rules, iron clad, that would prevent that undesirable element creeping in our midst, and we made rules so stone-wall tight, that players trum outside 15 miles were not allowed on any team. Pitchers and catchers were deemed a necessity from outside sources consequently none were developed. By being compelled to use home pitchers and catchers we have developed a fine bunch of them.

With only two months playing we have attracted the attention of the 'Big Moguls' and at least eight of our players are being looked over. That is more than the past, element has been able to accomplish in years of efforts. By doing away with the idea of every one getting a share of the spoils, we have returned to the manly and have done things for the love of the game. CREDIT TO APPLETON MEN
The press of this state are predicting great things for this class of ball. Right in your midst you have a team that is a 'daddy.' Your fans tall to appreciate their true worth. Every player of your team is a true home talent player. Credit is due to Manager Baetz and Coach 'Doc' Kolb for the wonderful manner in which they have developed that team. Some of your own boys are being looked over in the future. I attended one game recently and was amazed at the lack of patronage. Your boys have done wonders and are out there working hard. Where the paid players played for only what was coming after the game, these boys play as if it should be for the sport. You should take great pride in that team. I have witnessed many a big league game, and failed to see a better brand of ball than is displayed in your midst right now. "Booster day, should bring out the fans in good numbers and let me ask your business men a percuty straight from the shoulder question: Let it not be a personal one, but let it sink in—Your slogan has been as the slogan of all small town business men 'patronize home merchandise' what would be your verdict if all these boys purchased all their clothes, hats, shoes, autos, groceries, and meat, from the big cities, and spent their money away from home? You would all raise up a hue and cry, and justly so. Has is not occurred to you that you did the very thing you condemned, failed to patronize the home boys, and give all your money to outsiders? You don't have to be an outsider to be a good player; you don't know them, but you do know your own boys. Give them a boost, go witness the games, and pay less than one third what the old defunct league charged."

JOE BUSH PITCHES ONE OF BEST TILTS

Joe Bush of the Browns pitched one of the best games of his long career when he let Washington down with but a single hit the other day. Oddly enough, the veteran hurler, opening hurler, garnered the victory, getting a double in the sixth inning. The defeat left Washington but a point ahead of the Athletics in the standings.

DEFEAT OF FRENCHMEN CAUSES BIG SURPRISE

The recent defeat of the great French pair, Lacoste and Borotra, in the national tennis doilies by White and Thelimer, Texas youngsters, occasioned quite a surprise. The foreigners were figured to remain in the battle well down to the final, but they simply couldn't turn back the onslaughts of the American collegians.

195 POUND GRID STAR ADDED TO PACKER LINEUP

Jimmy Crowley Claims Former Irish Star and Coach Will Burn Up Pro Gridiron

Green Bay.—George Vegara, a 195-pounder who earned his gridiron spurs at Notre Dame under Knute Rockne in 1922 and 1923, has signed his contract to play with the Packers during the coming football season. In the closing game of the schedule last fall, Vegara appeared in a Packer uniform but did not get into action as Capt. Lambert deemed it best not to use a player, who was not acquainted with the Big Bay Blues style of play. At that time, Vegara promised the Green Bay management that, if he played professional football this fall, he would like very much to come to Green Bay.

COACHED AT NOTRE DAME

Vegara coached at Notre Dame during the school year of 1924-25 while he finished his law course. He handled the freshmen football, basketball and baseball teams as one of Rockne's assistants. When school closed in June, he joined the Louisville club of the American Association and was with the Colonels for a few weeks. Vegara asked the Louisville club for a leave of absence, which was granted, and he went to his home in New York city.

He had planned on taking the N. Y. state bar examination this fall but he was induced by the Packer management to change his mind and he will be here for the opening practice on Sept. 6. It is possible that Vegara may make a connection with a prominent law firm and live in Green Bay throughout the year.

PLAYED REGULAR END

Vegara is a graduate of Rose Poly high school in New York city. He spent a year at Fordham university before entering Notre Dame. In 1922, the first year he was eligible at Notre Dame Vegara earned a regular job as end. In 1923, Rockne started him off at the same position but, just before the Army game Vegara was switched to guard as Rockne wanted a "crash" near the center line to stop "Twee Hewitt, the Soldiers' famous full-back. Stories of that West Point Army game tell how Hewitt was stopped in his tracks and the name of Vegara broke into the headlines of the metropolitan dailies. He rolled Hewitt for a goal every time the famous backfield tried to ease through.

VETERAN PACKER GUARD DONS GRID TOGS AGAIN

Green Bay.—Whitely Woodin, veteran Packer guard, will again be very much in evidence when the Big Bay Blues do their stuff on the chalk marked field this fall as he has signed his contract for the season. This will be Woodin's fourth season with the Packers. He joined the team about mid season in 1922 and has been going good ever since. Woodin was a star gridder at Marquette for several years and was picked for an honor post on the Milwaukee Hillops' All Star team. After leaving college, Woodin got his first taste of pro football, with the Racine Legion. Woodin is well liked by the football contingent in Green Bay. He has always given his best on the field and when the scrimmage is the thickest he is generally found in the height of the battle. "Whitely" is a pepper box on the field and his rallying cry often stirs up a lot of fight in his team mates.

Woodin is an all year round resident of the Bay. He holds a responsible position in the sales force of the Fox River Motor Car company.

Harris Boys Shoot To 4 1-2 Game Lead In Flag Chase As Walter Johnson Stops Macks

Pittsburgh Also Cops To Take Eight-tilt Margin on Faltering Giants in N. L.

New York.—(AP)—World series signs beckoned more plainly to Washington and Pittsburgh Wednesday. With the Pirates plowing steadily ahead in the National League to an advantage of eight full games over the Giants, the Washington Senators paralleled the pace Tuesday by striking a body blow at the tumbling Athletics in the American League, 7 to 3.

The hard-clouting, confident Senators were supported by steady pitching of the veteran, Walter Johnson. Although he gave the visitors ten hits, he was almost invincible at crucial points. The victory, Washington's fourth in a row, placed the champions four and one half games in the lead and added a seventh straight defeat to Philadelphia's losing streak. The two teams play a second game Wednesday.

BRAVES OUT OF CELLAR

After peering away for several weeks at the door from the cellar, the Boston Braves bounced out with a loud explosion, which carried them all the way to the sixth landing. The former collegian, Gautreau, figuring prominently in a 2-0 shutout with a brace of timely singles. With Babe Ruth looking on from Col. Ruppert's box, the Yankees nosed out the Red Sox in an American League pitching duel between Shawkey and Elmke, 2 to 1.

RUTH PENITENT, HUGGINS IS FIRM

Yankee Manager Says Babe Should Be Given Time to "Think It Over" First

New York.—(AP)—A penitent Babe Ruth Wednesday entered upon his first day of probation to win the forgiveness of Miller Huggins, whom he criticized freely in Chicago, under the sting of indefinite suspension and $5,000 fine for violation of training rules.

After a day of olive branch waving during which he said to Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, "I made a fool of myself" the king of home run hitters Wednesday awaited acceptance of his overtures for peace tendered to Huggins. Saying that under no consideration would Ruth's fine of $5,000 be rescinded, Huggins added: "I will renege Ruth when I am convinced he intends to do the right thing. I am the last person to make things hard for a player. But he will have to realize that the club is bigger than he is." Mrs. Ruth, who is ill with an infected finger and a nervous breakdown, tearfully accepted friend hands, with assurance that there was no truth in reports about him involving other women.

4 FIGHT FOR FLAG IN VIRGINIA LOOP

Richmond, Va.—There's a four-cornered fight on for the pennant in the Virginia League. Wilson, Richmond, Portsmouth and Norfolk are neck and neck and a few points separating the leader from the fourth-place team. At the same time the other two members of the organization are waging a fight to keep out of last place. They are Kingston and Rocky Mount. It is one of the best races, all things considered, staged in the circuit in seasons.

START BIG GOLF MEET WEDNESDAY

Several Stars Including Bobby Jones and Van Elm, Prepare for Hard Battles

Oakmont, Pa.—(AP)—Golfers who survived the two hectic days of qualifying rounds at Oakmont Country club course, only 16 of a field of 134 qualified starters, teed off Wednesday for the first 36 holes of match play, in the National Amateur championship. Bobby Jones of Atlanta, defending last year's runner up, and therefore they will not meet in the finals this year. The pairings are: John Mackie, Jr. and Lauren Upson, Richard "Dick" Jones and Roland R. MacKenzie, W. C. Fownes, Jr., and Jess Sweetzer, Watts Gunn and V. L. Bradford Jr., Robert (Bobby) Jones and William Reekie, Fred Knight and Clarence Wolfe, George VonElm and James Manion, Eddie Held and Jess Guilford. MacKenzie has the distinction of leading the brilliant field in the qualifying rounds. He turned in a score of 145 for the 36 holes finishing two strokes ahead of Bobby Jones and Jess Sweetzer, who tied for runner-up with 147.

Failure of Chick Evans and Francis Outimet to qualify added dramatic touch to the qualifying rounds. This was the first tournament in which Evans failed to get in since he appeared in Cleveland in 1907.

CORNELL TRACK SQUAD REELECTS G. BARBOUR

Mount Vernon, N. Y.—George Barbour, Cornell college track captain in 1923, has been reelected as captain for 1926 by his Purple team mates. During the last season the Cornell track team won two dual meets, tied one, and won the Midwest conference championship with the other conference members. Barbour will be a member of the Purple squad for the fourth season in 1926.

Badgers Expected To Have Tough Going With Ames

Madison.—(AP)—Wisconsin will open her 1925 football season against a real tartar, the husky Cyclones of Iowa State being down in the foot ball world as Ames. The invasion of the Iowans last fall will long be remembered. Led by a passing phenom, "Gut" Roberts, the corn-fed eleven passed with reckless abandon and were continually threatening the Badger goal line. It was the great defense work of McAndrews and his return of several intercepted passes that gave the Badgers their win. The score of 17 to 0 does not indicate the great game that the Cyclones put forth.

VETERAN SQUAD

This year the Ames eleven will clash with the Badgers and have a veteran eleven. Their greatest loss has been the passing star Roberts, but they still have the great pair of open field runners, Johnny and Norton Behm. Johnny Behm, a diminutive quarterback, will captain the Cyclones and should be the most dangerous of their entire backfield. Besides the Behm brothers, Ames has Fisher, Hill, Malone, Selbach and Woodhull. From their fresh squad comes a trio of comers, namely Hall, Cory and Weis. In the line they will have Galbraith, Grimes, Henton, Frank, Mayer, Prunty, Rasmess, Simonds, Thoms and Thornburg, all of whom saw action against the Badgers last fall. On the ends, another trio of veterans are available in the person-

6,000 PERSONS AT FIRST DAY OF FAIR AT DE PERE

Splendid Programs Offered
Day and Night at Northeastern Exposition

BY W. F. WINSTY

De Pere—Approximately 6,000 people attended the opening of the Drown-co fair at De Pere Tuesday morning and an equal number was on the grounds at the evening performance. Every building is filled to capacity with exhibits of several counties and the free attractions represent the best talent in acrobatic, musical and general vaudeville performance that was ever assembled in the history of the fair. The three races attracted some of the best horses in the state. The night program was exceedingly spectacular and included that class of entertainments that can be offered only on account of its cost, by community effort and that depends for its financial success and reputation in coming years upon the solid support of the people of a large area. Among the exhibitors in the horse department was Fred Roepcke, in the cattle department, Buttes Bros., and in the poultry department, Bubolz Bros., all of Outagamie-co. Mr. Roepcke showed Percheron and won the following premiums:

mares, first and second; two pairs of horses, first and second; three mares two years old and over, first, second and third; horse two years old and over, first; three colts, produce of one dam under four years, first; champion mare, champion draft colt. He won prizes on drivers as follows: first four years old and over, first; yearling, first; champion colt. Mr. Roepcke swept the field with his exhibit.

Buttes Bros. exhibited two Guernsey bulls and won two first premiums. Bubolz Bros. showed 160 water fowl, 300 chickens and 15 turkeys. Among the water fowl are 100 geese that took every prize offered. All but four premiums went to Bubolz Bros., ducks. Their turkeys took every premium in sight.

Five horses were started in the 219 trot won by T. B. in three straight heats.

MARCH BACK TO GALLOWS?

Marching back to solitary confinement and perhaps the gallows, five convicts who escaped from the San Quentin, Calif., penitentiary, after killing a guard with an ax are shown leading a posse procession. The convicts forced Alex Sagerstrom, above, to take them across San Francisco Bay in his launch through a rain of bullets from the prison guards. The fugitives were caught when they attempted to land from Sagerstrom's boat. He is shown holding the ax used to kill the guard.

FIND VALUABLE GEMS IN DEBRIS OF HOTEL

Green Lake, Wis.—Wealthy guests and volunteer workers Monday sifted the ashes of the ruins of the Pleasant Point hotel on the east end of Green lake, which was destroyed by fire Saturday, in an effort to recover valuable gems lost in the blaze. Shortly before noon the searchers were rewarded by recovery of a collection of diamonds owned by Mrs. H. Ziegler of Texas, valued at several thousands dollars. The diamonds were found under three feet of charred timbers and ashes.

Several diamonds and a large sum of money were lost by Mrs. E. N. Maueier, Chicago. The searchers were concentrating their efforts on finding Mrs. Maueier's property, for its value is said to run into thousands of dollars. A small pin, a fam-

A Knew Knitting Booklet On Knitting and Crocheting

Every woman will want a copy of this new knitting and crocheting booklet. Whether you are a beginner in this fascinating work—or an expert—you will find many suggestions of value.

It contains illustrated instructions showing the proper and easiest way to cast on stitches, to knit plain, to purl, to increase, to decrease, and to bind off.

In crocheting it shows how to chain stitch, single crochet, double crochet, slip stitch, to decrease and to join colors.

It also gives designs and directions for making the latest models in sweaters, as well as patterns and illustrations of numerous crocheted articles.

Send for your copy of this booklet today. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.
